The Story of the Diamond

Chapter 13.—Mining (Continued).

Under the management of the DeBeers Syndicate, instead of the old segregation of small 24-foot claims worked separately, one huge shaft was sunk with the necessary tunnelling—this shaft some years ago was over one-half mile deep. Modern machinery was introduced—a large distributing floor formed, capable of holding 4,500,000 truck loads of clay, where it was sometimes left to weather for a year or more, a steam harrow, meanwhile adding in breaking up the clay. When "ripped" this soil is placed in large perforated revolving cylinders, thence to large pans where it is shaken and washed.

Under the old system, the mixture of stones and pebbles of all sorts was sorted by hand, but now it was done automatically upon inclined tables with a greased surface, for by mere accident it was found that grease thus used would retain the diamonds whilst all other stones, etc., would pass along freely. When tempted to complain because of the cost of your diamonds, please bear in mind that the average yield after all this trouble is only 1-4 grains per ton, which, when further reduced by the removal of all inferior stones, brings it down to an almost "irreducible minimum"—and yet the return for the DeBeers amounts to about $25,000,000 a year.

Heroes Cheer Peter Wright

Rousing and Highly Pleasurable Time in Toronto

Denounces Bolsheviks—British Labor Orator Warns Against Disturbing Talk in Canada

(Toronto Globe.)

Peter Wright, councillor, social worker, sailor, and one-time wrestler, at the Armories last night proved just the type of orator to entertain a huge audience of soldiers. There were fifteen hundred men and their immediate families present at Edmund Bristol, M. P.'s dinner, and they were delighted with the two-act play in which Councillor Wright attacked anything he disliked. When he concluded a half-hour address they rose and gave him three rousing cheers.

Beware of Disturbers.

"Now that Kaiser Bill is down on his knees," Councillor Wright told them, "we will be able to start reconstructing and creating a new Canada with a new outlook, a new vision of greater happiness and higher life for everybody, I am here to have a word with the glorious men who, in conjunction with the gallant ladies belonging to Australia, Africa and India, made it possible for you and me to sit here tonight in safety and comfort, and made it possible for democracy to exist."

"Now men, as an old man who has been knocking around for a good many years, I make an appeal to you now that you are retired from the army to make a resolution that you are going to live for this great Canada of yours and make it a happier land and reap the full reward of that for which you have fought. Only a week ago, when I was speaking at Timmins, I was handed a letter upon which was written an appeal to the soldiers now that they have won the war to unite for the purpose of creating a revolution. They stated that it will be impossible for you and me to obtain that to which we are entitled as long as capital is in existence. I ask you to beware of these men."

Urges Use of Parliaments.

He asked his audience if they realized that they had the power to put men out of their own ranks into the Toronto city council and into the legislature and the Ottawa "incubator" in the past, he told them, workingmen had been content to let somebody else do their thinking for them. "You are men," he said, "and have got to work out your own salvation. If you are not willing to go to the trouble of developing your brain you cannot expect other people to do it for you."

"I have fought the capitalist practically all my life," he went on, "but during this war these men have come to realize that we must not go back to pre-war conditions. These men are eager and anxious to co-operate with you and I, providing that we will remove that spirit of mistrust which has been the great curse during the last twenty-five years in the industrial world."

He bade them beware of the "labor" man who lived on the backs of the workers. Some of these "hoodlums" were identified with the I. W. W., some of them were the tools of Germany and Austria.

Carrier Pigeon Saves The Life of Ensign

Flies to Land With Word of Finch's Plight—Aviator Adrift Off Jersey Coast With Gasoline Exhausted

Atlantic City, April 9.—A blue-coated carrier pigeon was the chief actor in saving the life of Ensign Finch, a navy aviator, adrift in a flying boat without fuel in a rough sea off here, while Judge Joseph Buffington of the United States circuit court of appeals for Pennsylvania and his cousin, Lieut. Matthew Taylor, late commander of land forces aloft in the naval district from Cape Hatteras to Florida, were supporting actors in one of the most remarkable rescues ever made off the south Jersey coast.

William Lyall of Toronto was seated in his beach-front room at a hotel when he was startled by a loud knocking upon an open window. He notified the hotel management and a porter conveyed the bird to the office floor.

Judge Buffington and Lieut. Taylor, who happened to be there, found a small cylinder of aluminum about an inch long clamped to its leg. Upon a piece of paper not much bigger than a special delivery stamp in the tiny receptacle was this message of appeal from the sea:

"Down ten miles west of Submarine Chaser at 4:15 p. m. No gas."

"ENGLISH," FINCH."

Lieut. Taylor communicated with headquarters of the Fourth Naval district at Philadelphia navy yard on the telephone. Instantly the news was flashed to the Cape May naval base. Later the Cape May naval base called Lieut. Taylor from his bed to inform him that submarine chasers, hurriedly dispatched offshore, had found Ensign Finch and his disabled machine and returned them to safety.

Naval headquarters asked that the bird in the case be given the best care possible and returned to Cape May.

Apponyi Says Allies Are Responsible

Budapest, April 7.—(By the Associated Press).—Count Albert Apponyi, the last Hungarian premier under the old regime and a member of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in living since the communists gained control of the government in a modest two-story house, with his wife, two daughters and a son, was here to receive a delegation of the country's council chambers.

He had a word of warning to say about the foreigners who advocated Bolshevism. They were welcome to Canada, he said, so long as they were willing to be guided by British democracy and British law, and if they were not prepared to do that they could get to hades out. His concluding counsel to the soldiers was not to split their forces into different camps, but to unite in one organization, to centralize their power in order to get proper representation in the country's council chambers.

APPONYI SAYS ALLIES ARE RESPONSIBLE

It is said the government intends to place other families in the house reducing the Apponyi family to the use of two rooms.

The count, who is seventy-two years old, hopes to retain the use of his study overlooking the Danube. He says he has work to do which the communists may class as intellectual. The old statesman is still tall and vigorous.

The count said to the correspondent: "I am an old man and I am looking at this moment from a philosophic point of view, wondering if it will succeed. Certainly it is a most interesting experiment. I have been treated so far with every courtesy by the officials, but cannot pass an opinion as my class has no longer any rights. The country is ruled by one class. Fortunately my future is assured because I am past the working age and my son and girls have sufficient education to make their own way in the world."

"You may say that I think the Allies are responsible for such situation as exists in Hungary. The conditions are brought on by dallying and not making peace and leaving boundaries undefined. Also the proposed league of nations is merely a trust organized by the victors without asking the consent of the others."

HIS SIGHT FAILING, GAY, 91, KILLS SELF.

Wollaston Man Did Not Wish to Become Burden.

Quincy, April 9.—Fearing that rapidly increasing blindness from cataracts on both eyes would make him a burden to others, Royal H. Gay, 91 years old, killed himself by shooting here. Mr. Gay made his home with his granddaughter, Mrs. Joseph Cox, Wollaston. At noon Mr. Cox went to the old man's room to shave him and found him sitting in an easy chair dead. An old-fashioned revolver lay on the floor in front of the chair. The body of Mr. Gay was pitched forward as if he had bent over when he fired the shot.

For many years Mr. Gay was em-played by the Regal Shoe Company at Whitman, and in his younger days was a shoe manufacturer. He retired from business six years ago when failing eyesight compelled him to give up active work.

The Canadian troops now in Siberia are expected to leave for home about April 20.
