"At the age of 31 I commenced to ruin my health. Later on as 'ONE OF THE BOYS' I contracted a serious blood disease—SYPHILIS. I was weak and nervous. Gonorrhea, prostration, swollen eyes, hoarse voice, hair loss, nose tongue and throat, decay in action, nervousness, was a wreck. I was in the last stages when a friend recommended Dr. Kennedy & Kegan. A dozen other doctors had failed in curing me. Dr. Kennedy & Kegan cured me by their New German Method Treatment. I would want similar diseases to be cured by this New German Method. They are reliable, honest and skillful physicians."

TEMPERANCE TOPICS.

NOTES OF INTEREST TO THE ANTI-LIQUOR LEAGUERS.

Liquor Has Crime for Its Constant Companion—W. C. T. U. Fighting a National Shame—Pointed Resolutions by Presbyterians.

Strength From the Hills.
Come up unto the hills—thy strength is there.
Oh, thou hast tarried long.
Too long, amid the bowers and blossoms fair.

With notes of summer song.
Why dost thou tarry there? what though the bird?
Pipes mirth in the vale—
The plough-boy whistles to the lithering herd.

As the red daylights fall—
Yet come unto the hills, the old strong hills,
And leave the stagnant plain;
Come to the gushing of the newborn rills,
As singing they to the main;
And that with dentures of power shalt dwell.

Beyond dreaming care,
Composed upon his rock, mid storm and fell,
The eagle shall be there.

Come up unto the hills; the shattered tree
And fling out his branches wild and free.
To dare again the shock.
Come where no fear is known; the sea-bird's post.
On the old hemlock swings.
And thou shalt taste the gladness of unrest.

And mount upon thy wings.
Come up unto the hills. The men of old,
Grew jubilant of heart, and strong, and bold.

On the enduring hills—
Where came the soundings of the sea afar,
Borne upward to the ear,
And nearer grew the moon and midnight star.

And God himself more near.

Companion of Crime.
Drunkenness is never to be found alone, never unaccompanied by some horrible crime, if not by a wicked crowd of them. Go to the house of the drunkard, consider his family, look on his affairs, listen to the sound that proceeds from the bottles of drunkenness as you pass, survey the insecurity of the public ways and of the night streets. Go to the hospital, to the house of charity and the bed of wretchedness. Enter the courts of justice, the prison and the condemned cell. Look at the haggard features of the tranced criminal. Ask all these why they exist to distress you, and you will everywhere be answered by tales and recitals of drunkenness. And the misery and the vice and the sorrow, and scenes of sufferings that have harrowed up your soul were, almost without exception, either prepared by drinking or were undergone for procuring the means for satisfying this vice which springs from it—Archbishop Ullathorne.

Pointed Resolutions.
The following resolution was passed by the Paris, (Ont.) Presbytery in regard to Principal Grant's article against prohibition: "Whereas, the Presbyterian Church has repeatedly in all her courts taken strong ground against the licensed liquor traffic of this land, declaring it to be 'contrary to the Word of God and to the spirit of the Christian religion,' and calling upon people by voice, vote and example to do all in their power to seek its removal; and, whereas, the prohibition of that traffic has been lately assailed in one of the most largely circulated papers in the Dominion by one whose position and influence identify him very closely with the Presbyterian Church; therefore, the Presbytery of Paris deems it an imperative duty to give at the time on this matter no uncertain sound in relation to its adherence to the position taken by our General Assembly and our opposition to and repudiation of the ground taken by the principal of Queen's College."

Fighting a National Shame.
The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the District of Columbia, with Mrs. Margaret B. Platt at its head, is waging a most vigorous war against the proposed saloon attachment to the new National Congressional Library. A committee has waited upon the president and received from his private secretary the assurance that the matter will be brought to the attention of the librarian of congress. An effort is being made to reach all influential societies throughout the nation. The corresponding secretary telegraphed the librarian: "National W. C. T. U. earnestly protests against the sale of liquor in National Congressional Library." It is hoped that the various state unions will take up the appeal and that a strong pressure will be brought to bear to prevent this new blot upon our nation's honor.—Signal.

Against Judge Foster.
The W. C. T. U. of Maine has forwarded a formal protest to Governor Powers against the reappointment to the supreme bench of Judge Foster. The action is based upon the well-known immorality of the candidate, which charge the union declares it is able and willing to prove, if necessary. It would seem a matter of consistency and common sense that a man whose duty it is to decide the points of the law and to uphold its majesty, should at least possess the qualifications required of a saloonkeeper—"a good moral character." But it is evident that the "legal male mind" does not thus look at it, many of the lawyers who practice before Judge Foster having petitioned for his reappointment. The W. C. T. U. are "pale women," but as a moral entity the organization is a power, and as a political entity it is a leader of influence not to be scoffed at in these later days. We doubt not that the "brave action" (as an eastern journal calls it) of the Maine white ribbons will arouse such public sentiment as shall demand hereafter that moral character, no less than intellectual ability, shall be required of one who aspires to the crine.—Signal.

One Thought: Uppermost.
Invited by the New York Herald to contribute a meditation for last Thanksgiving day, C. C. McCabe, D. D., Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, responded as follows: "Some day we hope to celebrate a Thanksgiving day when the chief thought in every mind will be the overthrow of the rum traffic. It is sure to come. The wreck and ruin of rum will weaken the conscience of the nation some day. There were 10,000 murders in this land in 1896, and 6,000 suicides. It is a carnival of blood! Who can deny that nearly all of them were caused by rum? A glad Thanksgiving day, indeed, when the nation celebrates the destruction of this terrific foe of human existence!"

The Burning Glass.
Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow?
Who hath troubles without cause?
Who hath redness of eyes?
They that tarry long at the wine.
They that go to see mixed wine.
Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color.

in the CUP,
when it moveth itself aright.
At the last
it biteth like a serpent,
and stingeth like an adder.

Flourishes Upon Rain.
A trade which flourishes upon the ruin of its supporters, which derives its revenues from the plunder of homes, from the defrauding of helpless childhood and from the degradation of manhood; which requires for its prosperity the injury of the community; which ministers to every vile and vicious passion and propensity; which makes drunkards and thieves, and embezzlers and gamblers, and wife beaters and murderers; which brutalizes and degrades all who are brought into contact with it; cannot claim the respect, and assuredly ought not to be able to claim the respect of the community." Thus does the New York Tribune write of the licensed liquor traffic.

Temperance Notes.
Forty-one students have been dismissed from Stanford university, California, for inferiority in college work, immorality and drinking habits.

The Berlin Anti-Alcoholic League, Germany, has presented a memorial to Dr. Boase, minister of ecclesiastical, educational and medical affairs, asking for temperance education in the schools.

A decision has been made in New York that hard cider is a liquor within the meaning of the Maine liquor tax law, and a citizen of Carmel, Putnam county, has been fined $200 for selling hard cider without a liquor license.

A Strong Argument.
Nine-tenths of the area and population of Prince Edward Island is under prohibition, yet there is more drunkenness and more convictions for drunkenness in the one-tenth, the city of Charlottetown, than in the remaining nine-tenths. Is not this a fair argument for prohibition?—Templar.

Wisdom from Abstemious.
There are no accidents so unfortunate from which skillful men will not draw some advantage, nor so fortunate that foolish men will not turn them to their hurt.—La Rochefoucauld.

Do not think of your faults, still less of other's faults. In every person who comes near you look for what is good and strong; honor that; rejoice in it.—Rushdie.

To set the mind above the appetites is the end of abstinence, which one of the fathers observes to be not a virtue, but the groundwork of a virtue.—Johnson.

Some day he will let you look back on your life story, and see the golden thread of his fatherly love, and see shining over, and around it all.—P. R. Marshall.

The only advancing in life whose heart is getting softer, whose blood warmer, whose brain quicker, whose spirit is entering to living peace.—Rushdie.

Each man can learn something from his neighbor; at least he can learn to have patience with him, to live and let live.—Kingsley.

In the best books great men talk to us, give us their most precious thoughts and pour their soul into ours.—Channing.

It is good discretion not to make too much of any man at first; because one can not hold out that proportion.—Bacon.

There are none more abusive than they that lie most openly to it themselves.—Seneca.

Never do an act of which you doubt the justice or propriety.—Latin.

When we cannot act as we wish we must act as we can.—Terrence.

Deliberate with caution, but act with decision.—Colton.

Last year the United States produced 15,485,000 bushels of buckwheat, most of which was consumed at home. There are about 4,600 oaks in one bushel, making a total of 70,000,000, 600 oaks in the whole crop.

Advances of the Woman of Small Means.
"Sometimes a wife settles down into a dreary, domestic routine, honestly believing that until her husband's finances improve there is no other course for her to pursue," writes Helen Jay in The Ladies' Home Journal. "In this matter, as in many others concerning home life, the same standard of money obtains rather than the simple law of common sense. The very fact that many people can afford elaborate entertainments does not imply that they cannot enjoy simple ones. Novelty is the charm of life, as variety is its spice, and very often the guests who come from luxurious homes are the most easily pleased. Competent housekeepers are generally the most generous in their estimate of the efforts of others, and the young housewife who through fear of criticism refuses to invite her richer or more experienced friend to her house is simply cheating herself of much pleasure. In fact, the real breaks of social intercourse are quite as apt to come from self-depreciation on the part of the woman with the small income as from any feeling of superiority on the part of her more wealthy friends."

Management of Girls.
"It is almost always the girls who have known few men and have been kept much by themselves and never received appreciation or admiration at home who make bad marriages," says a successful mother. "There would never be an elopement, I believe, if girls had their proper share of admiration at home. If one of my girls was pretty or had a special talent in any line, she knew that we knew it and appreciated it. Such girls do not have their heads turned at the first word of praise from outside. Oh, yes, people may say that I am an old fogey and that girls are too sophisticated for elopements and to have their heads turned by praise, but there are girls and girls, and home appreciation is one of the best rules for bringing them up safely."—New York Times.

Objection to Feather Beds.
The objection to the use of the feather bed is that the person sinks into a downy and yielding mass which promotes and as the same time absorbs perspiration till it becomes loaded with effluvia animal matter not easily removed. An indolent and languid habit of body is thus induced which counteracts to a great degree the refreshment sought in sleep. To such an extent have feather beds been found that they cannot be said to be in general use, except for pillows and bolsters, for which purpose no pleasant substitute can be found.

Women have a much finer sense of the beautiful than men. They are by far the safer surmise in matters of propriety and grace. A mere schoolgirl will be thinking and writing about the beauty of birds and flowers while her brother is robbing the nests and destroying the flowers.—Exchange.
