H. M. Fullerton and W. P. Mc-Quorn Fight at Races and Go to Court

Herbert Matthew Fullerton, licens commissioner and real estate agent, was EXPRESS PACKAGE charged and acquitted in the Oak Bay police court Saturday with assaulting Walter P. McQuorn, a real estate dealer and surveyor, with offices at Broad and Johnston streets. A row between the men occurred on the floor of the betting ring at the race track on Wednesday last, when Fullerton approached McQuorn regarding a cheque which had been returned to the through the bank. Fullerton objected to seeing McQuorn betting on races while his cheques were floating and told him so. McQuorn asserted he was betting for a lady, and, according morning to stealing a case of archito the evidence, told Fullerton to "go tect's instruments from the steamer to the devil," whereupon Fullerton Charmer while they were in the trust and McQuorn engaged in a fight.
