KOSHER MEAT FROM CANADA.

Proposition Made to Furnish at Lower Prices Than Now Charged.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The East side kosher butcher troubles will probably be ended in a day or two according to a member of the committee of fifty which was organized to bring about a settlement.

The executive committee of the main committee held a secret meeting Wednesday night, at which it was reported that propositions had been made to the committee from slaughter houses in New York, New Jersey and Canada to furnish kosher meat at a price greatly below that now charged by the kosher butchers.

The offer from the Canada concern was the most flattering. The question was raised whether or not the meat from Canada could be brought here quick enough for consumption. According to the Hebrew religion meat to be kosher must be eaten within three days after killing. A telegram to the Canada concern brought the reply that the meat would be delivered in New York twenty-two hours after slaughtering.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 2, 1902.

AMAZING GENEROSITY.

The feature of the terms of peace that will provoke most comment will be the amazing leniency of the British government. It goes without saying that there will be much criticism of some of the provisions. It looks as if the government have been storing up future trouble for themselves or their successors. If the Loyalists who fought and suffered were rewarded for their devotion in proportion to what is done for these people, who destroyed their own stock and burned their own farms, the resources of the empire would be pretty severely taxed.

END OF THE WAR.

The grim shadow of war will not fall upon the festivities of the coronation. The conqueror of the Mahdi has also tamed the Boer; and, though at an immense cost of blood and treasure, the supremacy of the British flag in South Africa has been absolutely established. The news of peace will be hailed with joy throughout the empire, and with satisfaction among all peoples except the few irreconcilable haters of England. The result of the struggle was a foregone conclusion, although the Boers, misled by those who should have been their leaders, and encouraged by false reports artfully circulated among them, no doubt believed for a long time that foreign complications would eventually compel England to grant them their independence. They struggled on, with tenacious courage and hope, but have at last been forced to see that they were the subjects of a delusion and the victims of the greed and madness of Paul Kruger and his advisers. They will now learn that the nation they have fought against can be as magnanimous in peace as it has been determined in war, and that the freedom of British subjects is broader and more significant of all that makes for human welfare than the oligarchic system of the Transvaal Republic or the Orange Free State.

In whatever aspect this war is viewed, despite the sorrow and the cost, it has been of immeasurable good to the British empire. Needed lessons affecting the conduct of modern war have been learned, and the world has been taught in a manner the most conclusive that the decadence of Britain is but a figment of a hostile imagination. But greater than any other good is the fact that the empire has found itself. In the clash of strife the scattered members were drawn together as by a magnet, and in the furnace heat of war were welded into one magnificent instrument of battle, whether to be waged on the unsanguined field or in the peaceful avenues of human progress and development. There is no more Little England, but a self-conscious, united, triumphant empire, looking to the future with the dauntless hope and courage of youth in its heart, and the strength of manhood in its arm. Grave problems have yet to be solved, and no sane man would venture to predict the exact form to be taken by the new relations of the various portions of the empire to each other; but the old order has passed.

In South Africa there will still be disorder for a considerable period, owing to the conflicting elements in the population, and the difficulty there will be in getting the Boers satisfactorily settled down again to peaceful avocations under the new regime; but there can be no doubt the leaders who have at last surrendered will be as earnest in restoring order as they have been in their struggle for supremacy. And their advice will be welcomed by the people, the great majority of whom were long since eager to return to their farms.

Unquestionably the greatest reputation made in this struggle has been that of Kitchener. With that steadfast persistence and resourceful energy which made his earlier reputation on the Nile, he has pursued his purpose, never faltering, saying little, and always pressing hard and harder upon the weakening forces of the enemy. It was a colossal task to conduct a campaign against a well mounted, alert and elusive foe, broken up into small bands over so enormous a stretch of territory. But Kitchener has proven himself a diplomat as well as a soldier, and we can imagine the magnificent reception he will receive when next he enters London.

The end of the war, while it introduces new problems, brushes away many that pressed hard upon the British government and taxpayer. The reconstruction of South Africa, and the feverish revival of business and industry there, will create a new market and beneficially effect industries and commercial interests in the old country. With the joy of peace will come a new life into the preparations for the King's coronation, and the whole country will feel the splendid impulse of a new and brilliant epoch in the history of the empire.

THE CONCENTRATION CAMPS.

The United States consul of Cape Town gives some information and advice to his countrymen, especially that section which has been shedding tears over the brutality of British concentration camps in South Africa. He says: "I believe that if my countrymen would not be led astray by designing men making false statements to get their sympathy and their money, which they are sending to me to buy comforts for the women and children in the concentration camps."

The consul adds that the occupants of the camps have declared themselves satisfied. They are well cared for, well clothed and well fed. He favors saying the money sent for their relief in order to purchase cows for the Boers after the war.

This is ancient history now, but it is worth while even at this date to hear an American repudiate the false charges so recklessly made in so many American newspapers.

THE CANADA ATLANTIC.

Discussing the probable failure of Dr. Seward Webb to put through his Canada Atlantic deal the Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto World says that Hon. Mr. Blair is in favor of securing the line and extending the I. C. R. to Georgian Bay. The correspondent adds:

"A New Brunswicker who is in close touch with the minister of railways told your correspondent today that if the Webb scheme to buy the Canada Atlantic falls through, as he was sure it would, that line will be part of the government system within a short time, or, at least, as soon as the minister's return from England."

The Montreal Witness, which is more frank than the majority of liberal journals, tells Premier Ross that he has suffered "a moral defeat." It may also prove a material defeat when the test comes.

The Associated Press despatches on Saturday quoted an alleged angry dialogue between King Edward and Lord Salisbury. There can be no doubt, of course, that as soon as the pair separated they ran a footrace to get the ear of the Associated Press man, so that he could cable the story to the American newspapers. News of this sort is of vast importance, almost as great in fact as the frequent "diplomatic" indisposition of Mr. Chamberlain.

The speech of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain at Birmingham, quoted in today's Star, is commended to the attention of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and those of his colleagues who will be in London at the conference of colonial statesmen at coronation time. This is not the first time Mr. Chamberlain has thrown out a hint, though Sir Wilfrid Laurier ignored the last one.

"Says the Montreal Gazette: 'Massachusetts had a law forbidding the sale of ice cream, soda water and confectionery on Sunday. The Boston police undertook to enforce it, with the result that the legislature wiped it off the slate in the shortest possible time. There is no method of determining the popular demand for legislation so good as enforcing it.'"

TAFT IN ROME

To Confer With Pope About Monks in Philippines.

ROME, June 2.—The illness of Governor Taft of the Philippine Islands, who is suffering from tonsillitis, is not considered serious. He is confined to his room by a slight fever which is accompanied by the sore throat.

Cabling from Rome, the correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, will receive Governor Taft Monday.

"I understand," says the correspondent, "from a good source that the American government wishes to deprive the monks in the Philippines of their immense estates, but instead of going in for spoliation pure and simple, as some European governments would have done, Washington wishes to indemnify them and President Roosevelt will request the holy see to fix the amount of this indemnity."

A SUNDAY IN ROME.

ROME, June 2.—An imitation "Loudes Grotto" was inaugurated in the Vatican gardens yesterday. A superb garden party was given, which was attended by the pope in state. His holiness rode in a six horse Berlin and was surrounded by the mounted noble guards. The court appeared in medieval costumes and for the first time the ladies were allowed to wear afternoon toilettes.

CHILD RUN OVER BY TRAIN.

Little Harry Wetmore, Loose Right Foot in Accident in I. C. R. Yard.

Harry Wetmore, the five year old son of Henry S. Wetmore of Spring street, was run over by a shunting engine in the I. C. R. yard Saturday afternoon. The crushing wheels severed the right foot from the limb, and how he escaped with his life is past the understanding of those who witnessed the accident.

About three o'clock Saturday he was playing with some companions in the I. C. R. yard at the foot of Spring street. Down the track, a short distance away, was coming a shunting engine with two freight cars attached. One of his companions in a fit of boyish mischief seized young Wetmore's cap and flung it out across the rails. Impulsively he darted after it, and tripping over a rail fell directly in front of the approaching engine. His terrified scream of pain brought the first knowledge of his presence to the engineer, but before immediate action could arrest the progress of the engine both it and the following cars had passed completely over the boy. The train hands rushed immediately to his help and found that one of the wheels had passed over his right foot at the instep, crushing and almost entirely severing it. Notwithstanding his perilous passage beneath the low hanging engine and cars he had received no other injury.

The little fellow was carried to his home, and Dr. McLaren, who was summoned, ordered him sent to the hospital, where amputation was completed.

THEIR NAMES DROPPED.

Two Erring Ministers Retired By the Methodist Conference.

SHERBROOKE, Que., May 29.—In the matter of Rev. Foster McAmmond and Rev. D. C. Sanderson, the special committee appointed yesterday to recommend the most suitable course of procedure presented an unanimous report this morning.

The report recognized the fidelity and care of the original committee of trial and, having in view all the conditions of the case, recommends the same action in regard to both men, namely, that their names be dropped in silence, no credentials being granted.

In the most impressive silence the adoption of the report was seconded and in a deliberate manner carried by a unanimous vote.

Rev. Messrs. McAmmond and Sanderson were charged with going to Syracuse, N. Y., last summer, registering under assumed names, getting intoxicated and "feeling the town." They were under arrest in that city and this led to the exposure.

ST. STEPHEN, June 1.—A Calais pleasure party driving through St. Stephen yesterday afternoon met with a serious accident. While Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Burton McAllister and child, and Mrs. Armstrong, the latter of St. Stephen, were driving down the hill at Rushon street, some part of the harness broke and the horse commenced to kick. The carriage was overturned and the occupants thrown out with considerable violence. Mrs. Armstrong was injured in one hip and Mrs. E. H. McAllister, an aged lady, received a severe nervous shock. They were conveyed to their homes in Calais, where the injured ones are now doing nicely.

SCREWS ON ELDER-DEMPSTER.

LONDON, May 30.—The Express says that A. L. Jones, chief of the Elder-Dempster Line, states that it is a fact that the Atlantic shipping combination sent the company an ultimatum. A meeting to consider it was held in London yesterday, but no decision was arrived at, and the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Jones says that if the Beaver Line join the syndicate that combination will acquire a powerful influence in the Canadian trade.

Murchie & Son of St. Stephen, were seized by Sheriff Sterling under the woodmen's lien act, certain men who had worked in the woods for the owners having claims against the logs. On Saturday morning the logs were released, the owners having put up a bond sufficient to cover the claim of the creditors.
