LIVES OUT DOORS.
Getting close to the ground, coming back to mother earth and nature is the present fad of one Peter Harding, a North End citizen, who carries a wooden leg as an incubus. Peter cannot be forced to return to the haunts of man, but persists in living in the open back of Fort Howe, and unless some miracle intervenes Peter may get laid under the sod in a short while instead of existing as at present on terra firma.

THE MACHINE AND THE SENATE.

The Telegraph rests its hope for the defeat of the Grand Trunk Pacific bill with the senate. Everyone who has the interest of Canada at heart will trust that the hope is not ill-founded, but the senate also has been "reformed" of late and should it fill its duty in this great opportunity, there are many who will be surprised.

If the present administration has any claim to fame it is because of the perfection of its machine organization; because of the extraordinary success which has attended its efforts to subordinate the individual to party. During this last session this has been particularly noticeable.

A few months ago the government announced that it had been considering the transportation problem and had found it so intricately difficult that immediate action would be highly unlikely. More information was needed, and to procure this, they proposed to appoint a competent commission. This decision was endorsed by the vote of every member of the liberal party in the house of commons, not because it was wise, but because it was the decision of the party.

Not long afterward, for some reason not yet made public, the government, by an extraordinary reversal of opinion announced that the need of action upon the railway question was urgent, that further information was not needed, that the country could not wait for the appointment of a commission, and brought down as its railway policy this contract with the magnates who control the Grand Trunk, which is notorious as the Grand Trunk Pacific deal.

With one exception every liberal M. P. faced to the right about, swallowed his previous opinion and endorsed the new departure.

Since then, and in spite of the storm of opposition which the deal has provoked from nearly every section of Canada, not one of these gentlemen bound by oath to work for the good of their country and their constituents, has been able to find the slightest fault in any part of this complicated bill now before the house. Every opposition called upon the liberal party in this province to rally to the support of the measure, it hardly expected so feeble a response. The truth is that the bill is not at all popular. All the support it negative support. The people who do not want to quarrel with the government accept the measure to the extent of not fighting it, and that is as far as they will go.

It must be evident to anyone who watches the proceedings at Ottawa that there is absolutely no enthusiasm for the measure. In working it through the house the ministers are slogging on bare ground. It is a drag. The members supporting the government vote for the bill and against the amendments when they cannot find an excuse to get away from the house. But they do not like it. If the measure were withdrawn its departure would be followed with an immense and almost unanimous sigh of relief.—Sun.

THE POLITICS OF PA.

When Pa has fed the horses and done the nightly chore, and everything is snug and tight both in and out of doors.

He likes to light his old clay pipe, to lean back in his chair, and watch the thin blue wreaths of smoke that curl up in the air.

And then he'll put his glasses on and read the "Weekly Bee."

While Mrs. Rita quietly knits, and I am on his knee.

Pa says the present government is going to the bad.

And that they've lost what grip upon the job they ever had.

He claims that what the people want is just an honest man.

To run this new young country on the "protection" plan.

And we'll not prosper very much or so ahead, too far.

Until they sort 'em change things round, up there in Ottawa.

Pa says the railroad policy is nothing more or less.

Than one big steal for somebody, and utter foolishness.

They're openin' up a country (at least to all intent).

That ain't, and never will be, any good for settlement.

And these and lots of other things Pa says to Ma and me.

While she sits quietly knitting and I am on his knee.

lation, remove Canadian labor affairs from American domination.

On account of the endorsement of Parks there will be less building operations in New York this winter than for many years. Few contractors dare to enter upon heavy undertakings while their workmen are under the control of those men who freely use their position for their own gain, and who have the power, by merely giving a signal, to tie up a work involving millions of dollars for 30 days at all.

It is estimated that Sam Parks' victory will cost New York $20,000,000 this year. Men like that are too expensive for Canada and the more that is done to keep them and their influence to the southward of the boundary line the better it will be for this country.

The following is the Halifax Acadian Recorder's comment upon the recent stand taken by the Telegraph:

The Telegraph stands by itself in its recent opposition in these provinces. It occupies a unique position in journalism, one that we do not think any journal, whether liberal or conservative, will envy it. Its influence is killed. It is not an organ of public opinion to which the public can look for disinterested and unprejudiced advice and guidance. Personal pique or something of that nature is its guiding star, and when that enters in, its value and influence as a newspaper, which professes to guide and instruct the public, fly out of its editorial window. We can recall no case in the history of journalism just like it. Any journal with any self-respect cannot change its course so repeatedly and with so little reason without losing that respect. This is the opinion of its late manager, whose "sound business judgment" the Telegraph does not fail to mention.

The Moncton Transcript explains the Telegraph's latest pose by assuming that a new editor has been imported from the asylum at Fairville. The assumption, not inexcusable, is slightly incorrect. No change has been made in the Telegraph's editorial staff.

That theatrical manager who shot three of his actors after the performance the other night is only different from many theatre goers in that he had the courage of his convictions.

The course of the St. John Telegraph on the railway question has been rather difficult to understand, but the present attitude of that journal shows that at last it has properly judged the force and direction of public opinion in this province and the dominion.

When the Telegraph, some weeks ago, withdrew its opposition to the Grand Trunk Pacific bill, and practically called upon the liberal party in this province to rally to the support of the measure, it hardly expected so feeble a response. The truth is that the bill is not at all popular. All the support it negative support. The people who do not want to quarrel with the government accept the measure to the extent of not fighting it, and that is as far as they will go.

It must be evident to anyone who watches the proceedings at Ottawa that there is absolutely no enthusiasm for the measure. In working it through the house the ministers are slogging on bare ground. It is a drag. The members supporting the government vote for the bill and against the amendments when they cannot find an excuse to get away from the house. But they do not like it. If the measure were withdrawn its departure would be followed with an immense and almost unanimous sigh of relief.—Sun.

THE FESTIVAL OVER.

Closing Concert a Grand Success.

Clergymen Condemn Last Night's Sacred Concert.

W. R. Chapman was a proud man Saturday night, and well he might be, at the fine manner in which Gounod's Faust was sung. The lengthy opera was given with a grand sweep and was listened to with rapt attention by the brilliant audience that taxed the York Theatre to its capacity.

Mrs. G. E. Carter, who sang the part of Marguerite, appeared at her best. She not only sang her part, but acted it as well. Her voice is full of dramatic power and she interprets with accuracy the different emotions which are supposed to inspire the character she plays. Her rich soprano voice overthrew the listener, and after she had finished, his mellow cadences seemed to linger in the air. She was the recipient of a handsome bouquet of flowers, which she graciously acknowledged.

Francis Archambault, the young French basso-cantate, sang with marked effect the part of Mephistopheles, and the beautiful tenor of Mr. Johnson was heard in a grand solo, while his part as Faust. The work of the other artists was admirable, as was, amply shown by the hearty plaudits tendered them. The chorus and orchestra also deserve great credit. They worked together with marvelous accuracy.

Mrs. G. E. Carter, president of the Music Festival Association, made a brief address; she told that St. John people had shown a warm and appreciative interest in their part in the small attendance at the different concerts. She made a few appreciative remarks of the excellent work of the artists.

Mr. Chapman also made a little speech. He said he could not understand the people of St. John. If they would follow him to Bangor and Portland, Me., they would notice a very different enthusiasm from that which they had evidenced here.

Last evening's sacred concert was largely attended; a large part of the programme was taken from Verdi's Requiem. The orchestra's rendition of it was faultless. The tenor solo by Edward Johnson was enthusiastically received. Madame Stowell-Piper, Mr. Hemus, Miss Corinne Welsh and Mr. Johnson sang in quartette in splendid style. The Halibut chorus from Mozart's Twelfth Mass was given by the festival chorus, with grand effect. Hans Kronold gave a cello solo of his usual charming manner.

Mr. Archambault's rendering of "The Palm Tree" was a stunner in itself. He was obliged to give an encore. Handel's "The Heavens are Telling" was played by the orchestra.

Halifax is looking for annual musical festivals. If the festival is extended to Halifax, the continuance of St. John's annual musical treat is assured.

The holding of the sacred concert was strongly condemned by Rev. Canon Richardson, of Trinity, and Rev. Dr.
