A MIXED UP CASE. J. Meyer Charges J. M. Logan with Theft—Logan will Sue for False Imprisonment. J. Michael Logan, of Hampton, who since February last, has been operating an excelsior factory at Coldbrook, the mill and machinery being rented from Jacob Meyer, a Hebrew junk dealer, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Meyer, who charged Logan with stealing. It seems that when Logan rented the premises from Meyer there was some sixteen cords of poplar in the buildings that Logan bought from Meyer, also a barrel of oil and a few other small articles. The rent was fixed at $40 a year. According to the evidence of Jacob Meyer, who was the only witness on the stand this morning, Logan said he was unable to pay for the goods, which were to the value of about $100, and offered Meyer ten tons of excelsior, worth $15 per ton. This was agreed to, after a wrangle about delivery. Later Logan asked Meyer if he could not remove some of the excelsior, as it was crowding him for room. He stored away $247 pounds in a warehouse. By this time Logan owed him $100 in rent. He gave him $20 on account. Logan then agreed to allow the excelsior in the mill to remain where it was. On the 4th witness asked Logan for money for the rent and he said he had none, and would have to give up the business. When he asked about the excelsior Logan took him up stairs and showed him what there was, saying that there was a good ten tons, and that it was all the property of Meyer. Witness agreed to give him several days in which to pay the rent, but Logan said it was no good, all he had was some lumber and coal on the premises. Witness said the lumber was at $8 per thousand, also offered to assign to witness. Witness said he would rather sell the lumber and coal, and properly served. Next morning the appraisers went to work. They said there was 13,000 feet of lumber and between four and five tons of coal. Witness's son asked about the excelsior in the presence of the appraisers, and Logan replied that it was Meyer's. The next day he went out with teams to take part of it, but Logan refused to unlock the portion of the building where the remainder was stored till Meyer surrendered the lease. Logan offered him $5 to pay lawyers' fees for the lease. At this point J. B. M. Baxter, who represented Meyer, asked for an adjournment as he had a case on in court, and it was agreed to let the case stand till Friday morning. Logan was admitted to bail. Henry Deane and Daniel Mullin, Jr., Logan's counsel, in $250 each and Logan in $500.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION. Line to Bay Shore will be Double Tracked at Once—More Cars Coming. In consequence of the rush the facilities have been inadequate in every way to handle the thousands who have desired to visit this pretty spot. The company have used poor judgment in providing the accommodations they did, but it must be admitted that they have been quick to realize their failure, as they have already decided to double track the line, and this work it is stated will be completed as fast as possible. Just what material is available and how long it will take to get the rails, sleepers and wire on the spot is not known.

COREA'S WONDERFUL BELL. A queerly shaped gong, which occupies a position of honor in the centre of the City of Seoul, Corea, is said to be one of the largest in the world, and is called "the bell with the wall of a child in its voice." When first cast the bell sounded with a harsh and cracked note, and the superstitious Emperor, fearing an ill omen consulted with his magicians. These gentlemen held a long confab, and finally stated that the bell would never sound right until a live child was given to it. The magister then melted again, and a live baby was thrown into the molten metal. The wall of agony uttered by the little tot as the bronze engulfed it seemed to be repeated every time the bell was tolled, and to-day the Coreans still claim that the wall of a child can be heard in the voice of the metal.—London Telegraph.
