MORE FUN THAN A BARREL OF MONKEYS

(Victoria County News.)
Here is Joe again! I suppose you will think spring thawed me out, but I have been busy and as it is rather sloppy under foot I will again take my pen and contribute a few items for our County News.
What has become of Plough Boy and Punch and Judy?
A good deal of improvements in building are expected this summer by the amount of lumber getting sawed by the independent farmers here.
A large party of men turned out last Sunday morning to look for John Robert Barclay and were fortunate in finding the remains partially covered with snow in the rear of James Paul's woodland.
The young people were entertained at John T. Payne's playing whist on Tuesday evening.
Wilson and Perry DeMerchant were calling on friends here this week.
Our mail proves much more satisfactory than weekly.
It was a mistake when they said that if the mother-in-laws were dead the son in law would be better off, for if she was dead who would they borrow from?
Frank Flanagan has returned home with a cut finger which he received in Fiewelling's Mill.
A Kilpatrick of Presque Isle dined with J. W. Kilpatrick Friday.
Baird Bros. are hauling hay through our midst.
Jas. Larsen is moving to take up his residence on his farm here. Glad to see you coming Jim.
Lillian Lamoreaux visited her sister Mrs. Alex Scott one day last week.

W. Clair is home at present nursing a sore chin.
The weather has been very nice for this last week.
It is to be had the ice is getting bad so that Johnnie can't get over to see Edna.
Mrs. Mary Bowmaster was visiting at her daughters, Mrs. S. P. Watson.
Miss Ethel Hunter was visiting at Mr. Wm. Bowmaster's for the last week.
Manas McCluskey is visiting at his sister, Mrs. D. Bowmaster.
Arthur Mulhern is gaining lovely.
Harry Bowmaster is thinking about going west.
What became of those "gong bell"? We haven't heard their merry chime for a spell back. The ice being unsafe will probably explain it all.
It has been reported that the Hilarious Snow-shoe Club has been re-organized under a new director. Wonder who that is?
Several of our respected citizens are on the sick list at present.
Handford Good has moved down river.
Fine weather and bad roads are now in order. Julia Bowmaster is recovering from a serious illness.
Arthur Mulhern is still sick, his daughter Hannah of Bangor is nursing him.

One of our young ladies is seen going up the road frequently lately, wonder what the attraction is?
Considerable stir at Dixon siding loading cars lately. We would like to hear from Kicker.
DREAMING OF MOTHER.
(Written by a Victoria County Girl in Maine.)
Mother dear, I am of you dreaming,
For I long to see your face again,
Long to see you and dear father,
In your old accustomed places.
Long to see the brook and river,
And the trees that stand around,
And I long to see the cattle,
Feeding meekly on the ground.
I have sisters, I have brothers,
Once again I long to see,
For I'm dreaming gently dreaming,
Dreaming mother dear of thee.
Now the day is gently fading
And the night is drawing nigh,
Wonder what the attraction is?
Thinking mother dear of you.
When the sun arise tomorrow,
And the rain has ceased to fall,
It is then that I am dreaming,
Dreaming of you all.
To hear the birds far in the tree tops
They put forth a gentle cry
It is then that I am dreaming
Dreaming mother dear of thee.

WRITES HIS OWN 'OBIT,' DOESN'T DIE

Anxiety of a Man to Have Himself Properly Reported as Suicide Prevents Dead

GREENWICH, Conn., April 25.—Charles Belsinger, connected with the New York Telephone Company, did not commit suicide today, as he had claimed, owing to the fact that he wrote his own obituary and deposited it in a local newspaper office with instructions to send it to New York newspapers when he was dead.
His anxiety to let his wife, who left him two weeks ago, know he had been a good husband and died because of misery caused by her desertion saved his life.
Belsinger is thirty-three and his wife twenty-five. She left home after a family discussion two weeks ago last Saturday, taking her daughter, aged six, and leaving a son, aged three, behind.
Her husband became despondent, and so wrote his obituary notice, took it to newspaper office and asked to have it inserted in the New York newspapers. He was a stranger to the newspaper publisher, so the police, un-derstanders and physicians were questioned as to the death, with no result. A description of the man was obtained, and Belsinger was found alive, though in a fit of despondency. He admitted that his love for his wife had prompted him to prepare for ending his life. He was induced to postpone the event for a few days, at least, so that his wife could not be found. The obituary read:—

"The man found dead on Weaver street has been identified as Mr. Charles Belsinger, a well-known young man of Port Chester. Mr. Belsinger for the past two weeks has had very hard luck. A couple of weeks ago Mrs. Belsinger, who left home to pay a couple of small bills, did not return, and as far as known everything has been going against Mr. Belsinger. Mrs. Belsinger disappeared two weeks ago and her whereabouts is not known. She took one child with her, leaving one at home. Mr. Belsinger was a good, honorable husband and father; always loved his home and family, and for any one else to interfere was enough to break any one's heart. There are tales going around that Mr. Belsinger whiped his wife, but this is found out not to have been true."
Advertising has advantages over the ordinary salesman in obtaining an interview. It can usually get inside the prospective buyer's office door and upon his desk. It can usually reach a vantage point which the flesh and blood salesman would covet, that of getting face to face with a customer.—Ad. Topics.

SIX PER CENT OF BARONETS FALSE

Discovery that Many Persons Have Assumed the Title Upon Most Doubtful Basis
Basis
LONDON, April 25.—Unlike the titles granted in some Continental countries, those of the British aristocracy have always seemed to rest upon a solid foundation, based as they have been on royal decrees, patents and precedents and carefully enveloped in red tape.
It developed this evening, however, that there is also in the gold of the baronetage, for a special department committee has issued a report saying there is no doubt that a number of persons have assumed the title of baronet either wrongfully or upon the most doubtful basis. These cases approximate five or six per cent. of the entire baronetage.
The committee recommends legislative action to create a tribunal, that shall prevent the unlawful use of any title in the meantime it recommends in order to avoid fraud, that there shall be included in the annual publication of the official rolls of baronets only the names of those who have been mentioned by that title in some official document.

HOW DISS DE BAR SWINDLED THE HOLY ROLLERS

Full Story of Confidence Game for a Million—Worked in Portland—Representative of Prince Michael Arrives

(Portland Press.)
Frank Harmon, who for five years has been connected with the act known as the "Flying Rollers," who got their name from the "flying roll" in Holy Writ, and who first joined at Detroit, having been converted soon after he came out of a lumber camp, and being shortly after transferred to Chatham, England, the principal colony, landed in Boston yesterday and came to this city last night.
He says he is the representative of Prince Michael, who was deported from Portland last January, and he has been in coming here. The first is to secure, if possible, a reversal of the decision of the immigration inquiry board which deported Prince Michael. The reason for the deportation was that the board learned on secret information furnished by Mother Eleanor and by Prince Michael's own admission on the witness stand that he served a term in prison for a felony.
One of the strictest rules of the immigration department is that no felon be admitted to the United States. So far as known the point raised in Prince Michael's defense has never been raised. His prison service was in the United States, and his felony is alleged to have been committed in Michigan. A petition will be sent to the commissioner of immigration asking him to have the case reconsidered, the petitioner hoping to establish his claim that the board's ruling was unfair.

The deed of the property ran to the brother who accompanied her here and it is evident she hoped to get him to transfer it to her later. But Mother Eleanor overreached. She was too dictatorial to the deposed brother to suit him and when she returned to Detroit she began to convert into cash all the jewels and movable personal property lying around. The brother at Detroit got suspicious and started post haste for England to confer with Prince Michael. The hasty departure no doubt caused a very serious upset of Mother Eleanor's scheme to get into her own name the title to all the Detroit and Windsor property which Prince Michael had conveyed by deed to his Detroit representative the day of the deportation.
When Prince Michael last month, after his conference with the Detroit messenger, went to the English police authorities with a request for advice and laid before them the facts in the case, they brought forth from the archive photographs of the notorious Madam Diss de Bar, which he promptly recognized as excellent likenesses of Mother Eleanor. Meantime her informants in England had given her the tip and Mother Eleanor fled from Detroit, leaving the Flying Rollers there in even worse shape than she left their sister community at Chatham.
