REFORMERS.

Every little while some persons who seemingly craving excitement, get up an agitation against the so-called comic supplement or pictures printed in Saturday or Sunday papers, or against the humorous cuts which frequently appear on week days. There is such an agitation in St. John at the present time. It is not the first, nor will it be agitation against the so-called comic the last, but there is no evidence to indicae that the ranks of the reformers "The Yellow Kid," first of the family of supplement characters made his initial appearance. These reform campaigns are chiefly useful in providing occupation for a few dissatisfied spirits who might otherwise be more michievously employed. The effort pleases them and does not injure anyone else, called the boys to him. por do the various argue ents put forth influence the newspapers to any great

At the present time every Protestant denomination in Canada is weakened through neglect of the church's proper duties, which are being looked after by guilds, circles and assolute and occupied by athletic sports and other social amusements which should be subordinated to their duty and calling.

THE MEANEST MAN. Is one that lives in Maine.

And what his name is, I confess,
Would give me such a pain
To mention here that I'll withhold

His wife, a soul of kind intent,
Sat up for him at night,
Not quite so much for sentiment
As from her sense of right.
He urged upon her not to lose
Her beauty sleep, but she
Would smile and ask him to excuse
A wife's anxiety.

The other night the shameless wretch
Regardless of his spouse,
Went out, as she supposed to catch
His usual evening souse
But no; he softly slipped around
And through the back door crept Upstairs in silence most profound, To where he always slept.

HOLIDAYS. If you are rich and are going to spend your holidays with "White Wings Yachting," or you are punning for the Algonquin Bar Harbor, or any other place where you want to study the fashion plates, spend your money and surplus, health and energy, I have only this to say. It will take you three months to rest up after you get back. The same from public view.

And merely will his deed unfold ths to rest up after you get back,

If you are among the fortunate and have to earn your own living and economise carefully to have even a short oliday, then you need to select your holiday, then you need to select your resting place with care, and if you want to have a real good time, you must plan to give some one else a good time. If you are a girl and are to visit your relations or go to some place where the board will be cheap and you are to be "just like one of the family," you need some good advice even though you forget to take it just as you will forget to get to take it just as you will forget to take a number of things you ought to take on your: "outing."

LONDON, June 15.—"Why should not clergymen of the Church of England attend race meetings? If more of them did so don't you think the character of such meetings would be speedily improved?"

These questions are being asked of the London clergy in response to the remarks made by Bishop Percival in his triennial charge at Hereford.

The Bishop made three special points:
"Why was it that Nonconformist ministers were as a rule so much more found floating just above the railroad bridge on the east side of Kenduskeag stream about 7 o'clock Friday morning. O'Brien was a resident of Bangor, about 40 years of age, and unmarried. The body was discovered by Joseph H. Backmann, a cigar maker employed by Walter S. Allen, who was walking across the railroad bridge. Mr. Backmann notified the police and the body was taken from the water and removed to Coroner Finnigan's undertaking that the man's unwary feet were led.

There is an ordinance to the effect that all alleyways leading to wharves shall be closed at sunset. There are gates at some of these alleys and at some there are no gates at all. There are some which have gates which are never closed. There are of course stretches of wharf which cannot be fenced off and through which a stranger or a person not knowing where he was going, might go to his death in the river or stream.
