Passengers Drenched By Big Sea Which Traversed Ferry Steamer From Stem to Stern Last Evening --Woman Thrown Violently to Cabin Floor-- Costumes of Carleton Amateurs Go Adrift.

While Ald. Potts, chairman of the ferry committee, was celebrating his victory at the polls last evening, the steamer Ludlow was nearly swamped by a huge wave which swept the steamer from stem to stern, terrifying the passengers and working havoc with everything movable on board. When the Ludlow left the East Side at 7:40 o'clock with about fifty passengers the water in the harbor was very rough, but the captain did not deem it necessary to curtail the speed and when the wave struck the steamer the results were disastrous.

No Decision as to Inquest. Dr. D. E. Berryman, the coroner, has not yet decided whether he will hold an inquest into the death of John J. Condon, who committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid in Rockwood Park. The body was removed from Chamberlain's undertaking rooms to the home of the unfortunate man yesterday.

Narrow Escape from Drowning. Geo. Creighton had a narrow escape from drowning in Lower Cove slip last evening about six o'clock. While attempting to jump from a tug into a small row boat he slipped and fell into the water. He was unable to swim and quickly sank. Luckily his cries attracted the attention of members of the crew on board the tug who succeeded in rescuing him as he arose to the surface.

Mr. Woods sustained a bad shaking up, and Dr. McDonald had to be called in to dress the injured limb. Before the horse could be stopped, the boys, Frank and Harry Quigg, and Cedric and Rayworth Woods were thrown from the wagon, the Quigg boys being rather badly hurt.

Fail To Identify Woman Suicide

Relatives Who Mourned for Mrs. Wm. Francis Much Relieved to Find Her Living—Coroner Roberts Has Clue to Identity of Woman Who Jumped Into Reversing Falls.

A remarkable case of mistaken identity was revealed last evening when three relatives of Mrs. Wm. Francis, of 30 Adelaide street, recognized the body of a woman who committed suicide by jumping into the reversing falls at noon yesterday, as that of Mrs. Francis, only to learn half an hour later that Mrs. Francis was at her home alive and well. This clue having failed, the body still remains unidentified, although Dr. J. F. Roberts, the coroner, said last evening that he was in possession of a clue of which he could say nothing at present.

Last Grip and $60 in Cash. John Dunham of Brittain street, who arrived in the city yesterday from Fredericton, where he had been employed at steam driving, was as lucky enough to lose his grip, containing $60 in cash and other valuables, while awaiting the arrival of the train at Fredericton Junction. Mr. Dunham is not sure whether the grip was stolen or merely taken by mistake. He left it lying upon the steps of the station and forgot about it until the arrival of the Boston, when he discovered that it was gone. He did not have time just then to make further enquiries and was compelled to continue on his journey without his belongings.

Baptist Rally Next Week. The committee of the Baptist churches of the city have completed arrangements for a grand rally of the men of their churches and congregations at the Main street church on Tuesday evening next, the 26th instant. Rev. W. D. Stackhouse, D. D. and W. C. Senior, Esq., of Toronto, will be the principal speakers. Dr. Stackhouse is well known as one of the most instructive and eloquent speakers in the Baptist ministry of the Dominion. It will be the first appearance on the public platform in Saint John of Mr. Senior, who has lately been addressing meetings in Nova Scotia, and is regarded as quite as effective as Dr. Stackhouse.

Was His Aunt Mary. During the evening, W. Francis dropped in and without any apparent motive asked to see the body of the woman. Started, he thought he recognized the body of his aunt Mary, and was quite positive in his identification. He communicated with Ira Francis, a son of Mrs. Francis, and when the son arrived, and looked at the body, he set all doubts at rest by saying in a heart-throbbing tone, "Yes, that's mother." A son-in-law, Mr. Wm. H. Copper, of 103 Acadia street, also came in and confirmed the identification. It was also pointed out that the dead woman was wearing a braided coat and skirt similar to that worn by Mrs. Francis. Ira Francis had gone home to Adelaide street to break the news gently to the surviving relatives and much to his surprise found his mother at home and quite unaware that she had been pronounced dead by three of her relatives. While Mr. Cooper was still at the undertaking rooms, there came a telephone call and Mr. Francis in joyful tones announced that his mother was living and enjoying the situation. She had spent the day with a friend in High street and returned home early in the evening. The police and coroner had been notified that Mrs. Francis was the woman and had not anticipated any further difficulty in establishing the identification.

CANDIDATES SPEAK OF VICTORY OR DEFEAT

How Some of the Aldermen Received the Verdict of the Electors Yesterday -- Ald. Scully is Philosophical. All the candidates who fingered about city hall while the returns were coming in were in high good humor and even the unfortunates put on a bold countenance and cracked jokes over their defeat. When one of his friends started to console with Ald. Scully over his misfortune, the West Side alderman responded genially: "Well, it's all in a lifetime, and you know the saying—the good die young. Maybe that's the fate of even a good alderman or one who has, at any rate, tried to be good." Ald. Belys, when his fate was made evident, threaded his way through the crowd exclaiming cheerfully, "Let me out, boys. It's time for me to join the outer club." Ald. Potts, a red flower flaming in his button hole, beamed on all and sundry, and had a Standard reporter inform the elections as a mandate big enough to express his appreciation of their confidence in him. "Since entering the council," he said, "I have tried to do something, tried with might and main, though I wouldn't swear that I was always working on the right lines. But I felt that the people wanted a man who would try his level best to make things more, and I know now that they approved of my endeavors. At any rate I regard the result of the elections as a mandate to proceed in the direction I have been heading." The Mayor Elect. Ald. Frink, after he had been declared elected, came out into the lobby.
