

Whereas by a certain Act of Parliament passed in the sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, entitled "An Act for punishing Offences committed by Transports kept to Labour in the Colonies, and better regulating the Powers of Justices of the Peace in New South Wales," it is, amongst other things, enacted, "That it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty, by any Order or Orders to be by him from time to time for that purpose issued, with the advice of his Privy Council, to appoint, or by any such Order or Orders in Council to authorize the governors, lieutenant-governors, or other persons for the time being administering the government of any of His Majesty's foreign possessions, colonies, or plantations, to appoint the place or places within His Majesty's dominions to which any offender convicted in any such foreign possessions, colonies, or plantations, and being under sentence or order of transportation, shall be sent or transported; and," that "all such persons shall, within the place or places to which, in pursuance of any such Order or Orders in Council, they shall or may be so sent or transported, be subject and liable to all such and the same laws, rules, and regulations, as are or shall be in force in any such place or places with respect to convicts transported from Great Britain." And whereas His said late Majesty, by an Order by him issued, by the advice of his Privy Council, on the 11th day of November, 1825, in pursuance of the said Act of Parliament, and in exercise of the powers
