

Prefatory

WHEN over-wrought I muse on life,
What now it gives, what now receives,
I open childhood's earliest book,
And con, refreshed, its simple leaves.