

Shopping by Mail!

THE tendency of trade is to pass the little near-by stores and come to the big ones. What is the reason for it? First, the means of communication are better and quicker than ever before, apparently about as good as they can be. Second, prosperous stores increase their variety, extend their accommodations and lower their prices according to their prosperity, and make themselves known in a great variety of ways. Of course, the city runs away from the country. But the fact is sharper than that: a few stores in the great cities run away from all the rest. How? Why? Is it that a leading store has better taste and judgment and credit for getting goods together, better organization for showing them, and better facilities for delivering? Very likely. But is not this the principal difference: they have the attention of buyers? How do they get it? By professing to serve them well, and by doing it better than others—that is what buyers have to choose between. The accuracy of our Mail Order organization during recent years is well known. A blunder occasionally—the means are human—but so seldom that the department is known as having a model system. Success proves it. We shall lift it this year above its own level, so that what has been good service before—far above the average—will be excellent now. These prices will give you a chance to make comparisons. We guarantee goods to be exactly as represented, and if by any means anything is wrong, you can send back and get your money. The best wit the store affords is placed at the disposal of out-of-town customers, and orders for any of these things will be filled promptly:
