sumed manly proportions found themselves baulked by as little as half an inch. The feet were a failing with some and the teeth of quite a few caused their services to be refused. The height limit is now 5 ft. 3 inches. Having been passed by the doctor and signed up by the orderly, raw recruit was sworn in by Major Genet who presided at the ceremonies last night.

In all there are now over eighty ctive service volunteers signed, 68 of whom have been passed by the doctors, while the others have not yet been examined. Last night alone, orty one men filled in their active service forms

May Have Charge.

Seven officers have offered to acmpany the volunteers, but only three can be accepted and Major Genet announced last night that the selection had not definitely been made It seems possible that Captain Bert Newman will have charge of the men when they leave for camp, but when asked upon the matter he could only say he had volunteered and expected be sent with troops. He awaits the ecision of higher powers. Who the If enlistment continues at its present risk rate the whole of the men necssarv will be enrolled within the next two days. This fact says a great deal or the patriotism of the average Can-table that a much greater percentage of Canadians will travel to Valcartier or drill than was the case with the first overseas contingent. The British-er, however, still has a big percentage accredited to him, in the records of ecruiting. -Major Genet refers to the new recruits as a very fine example of Canadian manhood, and is quite satisfied with the returns to hand.

sians in pushing forward after gaining decided advantages along their tremendous battle front has been criticized widely. Since the disaster at Tannenberg, when a part of General Samsanoff's army was destroyed, the Russians have not encountered any serious re-verse in arms. Yet, although the situation does not closely resem-ble that in the western theatre of operations where the two fronts are represented by formidable parallel lines of field works, there has been no decisive advance by

By this time Russian mobiliza By this time Russian mobiliza-tion must be complete, and the numerical strength of the Rus-sian army arrayed against the Austro-German forces should be enormous. Yet why have they not advanced beyond the vast stretch-es of marchland and morass which cover miles of the territory lying before them in Poland and lying before them in Poland and

It is not likely that, following the partial repetition of Napoleon's tactics by the Germans, the Russians are countering with a partial demonstration of the traditional strategy of 1812. Might not the horrors of the midwinter retreat of the imposing grand army of the French emperor and the pitiful wastage of life in the Russian snows be repeated in the ordeal to be endured by the troops of the German emperor in the frozen wastes of the frontier and Poland?

That the Germans are manifestly less constituted to brave the rigors of such a minter as grips contested territory, than are the Russians, who are accustom ed to life in the zero snows, is ob-

While teutonic energy is being devoted in the forthcoming winter campaign, therefore, to preserving the health of their suffering troops in the field and erecting adequate shelters to shield from the elements those men who are not in the snow-filled trenches one may look for a repetition of the raids upon Napoleon's retreat-ing rear guard of a little more than a century ago. The toll will be taken by the rugged, weather immune, mounted troops of the Siberian corps.

Time, indeed, has been the strongest ally opposed to the Germans. To time will be added
