JANUARY SALE OF SALES

DRESS GOODS SUP-PLY DWINDLES AS PRICES ADVANCE

Conditions in the Dress Goods narket continue to grow more complex, both to buyers and sellers. In some instances mills are still producing for Spring and their selling agents are declining orders for next Fall and Winter delivery. There is absolutely no uniformity of action on the part of manufacturers making dress goods, including serges for the reason that no two manufacturers own their yarns or raw wool on the same price basis. This condition is due to the steadily rising market during the past year.

A significant feature of the market and an object lesson to buyers, is the action of the government in regulating the exportation of dress goods made of wool or worsted and the importation of the raw material. This attitude has been taken by the government in order to conserve the production of woolen goods for army use. Thus there is little likelihood of much importation of wool and worsted fabrics from England.
