Sponge Clean-Up

Every year about the first of June we make a sale of our stock of sponges. Before getting our new stock we try to clear out every sponge we have in the store.

For this week you can get any sponge we have at exactly half price—much less than they cost us. We do this because on account of their being in stock for some time they become dusty and dirty.

EXCITING SPRINT

Baggage man Geo. Marshall, who dislocates the bundles of passengers on Conductor Whiteley's train, had an exciting experience at Blenheim Junction Saturday night.

The baggage man wanted to catch his brother's train so as to spend Sunday at home. George tried to jump from his car to the rear end of the eastbound express. He missed his mark, however, and the trainmen saw him. The ground like so much baggage. The unfortunate baggage handler scrambled up and pursued the train. He wouldn't have caught it either, had they not taken pity and slowed down for him. The express conductor felt annoyed that George should practice sprinting using his train as a pace-maker.

EVIL FOR GOOD

William H. Bedford, Croton, was in the city today looking for a man he had befriended. The man left suddenly during the night and $40 disappeared at the same time. About three weeks ago Mr. Bedford was driving home when he encountered a weary wayfarer, who gave him the name of John Ramsey, his age 58, and his occupation a pensioner of the British Government. He asked Mr. Bedford to keep him all night. Mr. Bedford did so, and ever since till last night. Ramsey chafed around for his board. The man had been in the Public General Hospital here for four weeks suffering from a sore toe. The money was in a drawer in the sideboard. Mr. Bedford says that he has kept money in that drawer for 30 years and nobody has ever touched it. All Mr. Bedford has left was $3, which happened to be in an old pair of pants. He said he would like to change pants with Ramsey. Mr. Bedford swore out a warrant for Ramsey's arrest.

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS!

WEST KENT

Sheriff Gemmill, returning officer for West Kent, intended to make his official declaration of the poll in the recent election to-day, but owing to the fact that James Fleming, deputy returning officer at the town hall, Dover, had forgotten to enter up his record of the poll in his book, the sheriff was unable to complete the returns.

T. L. PARDO,
Member Elect West Kent.

All the other boxes were opened. The Planet's figures for No. 2 Dover have been taken in making up the majority, and Pardo's majority totals up to 235. It may be worthy of note that this great home journal published on Friday morning, the day after the election, complete returns, giving Pardo's majority as 236. The Sheriff has adjourned his official declaration till to-morrow, but that the official figures should only vary by one with those of the Planet's report last Friday, speaks for itself of the reliability of the information received by this G. H. J. The other papers will probably have the majority correct to-day.
