RED ROSE
 TEA "is good tea"

HERE'S a welcome to the returned soldier and his bride. May their wedded life be a long and happy one. If she is a "British Bride" she will be very fond of tea—and good tea, at that. She will first be attracted to Red Rose Tea by the name which will remind her of the "Red Rose" of "Old England". And when she tries it she will again be reminded of the "Homeland", for she will find Red Rose Tea the same kind of Tea that she has used at home—a rich, full-flavored blend, consisting chiefly of ASSAM teas grown in British-owned plantations in northern India.

Red Rose Tea is sold always in sealed packages.

Your Place in Repatriation

All Canada's sacrifices in blood and service will have been in vain if out of the turmoil men have not come to a realization of the fact that we are every one his brother's keeper. The old selfish attitude of "let George do it" must find no place in this new era of re-construction. There is a task for every hand to do; a vision of work for each to catch and your part in Repatriation as an individual only commences where the plans of the Government leave off. Organizations, municipalities, the churches, employers and individuals, all working towards the one end was the ideal of the Repatriation Committee, which has been steadily urged upon platforms and through the spirit of the press during the past twelve months.

From end to end of Canada the gospel of Repatriation has been preached and it is now up to the man in the street to go out and live up to the ideal. As far as the Government is concerned its scheme of Repatriation deals with the return of our fighting men to civilian life, medical care, pensions, vocational training, the establishment of employment offices and refitting the returning man in every way after his demobilization, from pensions and artificial limbs to re-education, establishing his home, and finally finding him a job.

Over and above these tasks there are many others, which can only be carried on through the co-operation of good will, and energy of the individual—the employer, the municipality, the churches, and all organizations dealing with human factors.

Home is the central idea of Repatriation. The boys are coming home. Home is being prepared for their coming. The people saw a vision during the war and that vision is a Canada made fit for the returning men, who have achieved such resplendent glory at the front for their country and themselves.

Repatriation is an attempt to make tangible, that vision. It asks whether or not Canada is ready to receive the returning men. Is Canada able to give them the opportunities for employment commensurate with their services? Is Canada organized to make use of the energies, the courage and the ambitions of the returning men? Have the returning men grown too big for Canada, as she was, and is Canada today capable of measuring up to their needs and their ideals?

The men who went over the top faced a thousand deaths and in exaltation overcame death by the mere fact of seeing beyond it. Death has no terrors for them. But it may be that they are more fearful of the monotony of the task of living.

Thus, repatriation suggests a house cleaning on the part of the returning men. Canada has to take stock

Wash The Kidneys!

After Bad Colds or Influenza
 Look to Kidneys and Bladder!

Owing to bad colds, over-eating or intemperance, or to the after effects of influenza—uric acid and toxins (poisons) are stored up in the body and cause backache, lumbago, rheumatic pains and stiff joints. It is most essential that treatment be directed towards prompt casting out of the poisons from the body which cause these pains and aches. This means that the excretory organs—the bowels, skin and kidneys—should be excited to their best efforts. Every one should clean house—internally—and thus protect one's self from many serious diseases, by taking either of our pleasant laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are made of May-apple, aloes and jalap. Take these every other day. This will excite efficient bowel action. If you suffer from backache, irritation of the bladder and the kidneys, shown by the frequent calls to get out of bed at night, considerable amount in the water, back-ache deposit, perhaps headache in the morning, you should obtain at the drug store "Auric" (auric acid), first put up by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are made of May-apple, aloes and jalap. Discover, made from wild roots and barks without alcohol, and put up in tablets or liquid.

Dogs in The World War

Unnumbered dogs have now given proof of their loyalty to man in time of war as well as peace. A few have been cited and decorated for services on the battlefields that was nothing short of heroic. There is the record of Fondy Air, a setter, who went into the trenches with a French Zouave and when an exploding shell had buried his soldier-master under a great mass of earth and stones, dug frantically until he had gained light and air for his beloved hero. And there is Verdun Belle, another trench-brother soldier, who adopted a young marine; followed him into the thick of the fray at Chateau-Thierry; lost him as well as her own puppies and yet was awaiting at a field hospital the ambulance that brought her shell-shocked comrade, to welcome, encourage and sustain him.

Loulou was another dog of heroic mould, only a mongrel, homeless and starving, when found, but intelligent, courageous and with a heart of gold. Scouring a surprise attack by the enemy, he was given the place of honor at the head of the advance. What happened thereafter is related as follows by G. C. Harvey, in "Famous Four-footed Friends":

"On account of Loulou's alertness, the attack was a failure, and Loulou, now barking at the top of his voice, chased the retreating troops with alacrity. Unfortunately he caught up with one of the enemy officers and set his teeth in the fleshy one's leg, whereupon the officer shot him."

The heartbroken French soldiers carried the dog's body back to their trench, and there dug a grave for Loulou as if he had been one of them. Then the quartermaster, with a voice full of emotion said, "Good-bye, dear little comrade. You were the only plain soldier in the dog's regiment, but we have all taken an oath that your name shall live as long as that of our distinguished regiment. We shall never forget you, faithful and tender little friend, who has gone to the Great Unknown without waiting for us. Deeply, we shall miss you gambols and joyous barking that brought sunshine to our darkest days. Good-bye, Loulou; we salute you!"

"This was the end of the simple ceremony but a vow was made, by the company, and was agreed to by the colonel, that at each roll call, thereafter, the dog's name should be called after the men's. And, since that time, when the sergeant-major shouts the name, 'Loulou', in his powerful voice, one of the soldiers, as a proof that Loulou's heroism has not been forgotten, answers simply, 'Died like a soldier!'

of her possessions and her equipment in the light of what will be required of Canada, by them:

Old things have passed away and behold all things are become new. This is what has come to pass in Canada. The dawn of a new era has come. Canada cannot go back to the old conditions, if she would, and she ought not, if she could.

Definite crevices mark the culmination of every struggle for some particular goal in the world's journey to proper rule. Immediately following the event comes the necessity of stabilization, in order that the goal attained be not lost. Canada must not lose the opportunity of obtaining the succeeding generations working and living conditions which will guarantee proper development for the people.

The scientific placement of men in positions, the right man in the right job, the improvement of living conditions, by establishing a standard of working men's houses; the care of those disabled by the war, which will make them self supporting; the employers' realization of their true relation to their employees; more wisdom in education; a greater brotherhood in our social relations. All these things are rendered possible because the war has set a tide running in the hearts of men, which is without parallel in history. These things are being done and the vision seen during the war will not be forgotten, and the anguish, the pain, and the death will bear fruit in the mitigation of sorrow, because they have not been in vain.

Repatriation is more than transportation. It includes the establishment in civil life of all returning men who have sacrificed their positions to go to the front. It puts upon the Government and the citizens of Canada the necessity of insuring adequate opportunities for all returning men to do better than to take up life where they left it off. Repatriation is a social and industrial task, which will never be solved until the returning men feel that the opportunities for advancement which were within their grasp when they went to the front are returned to them.

When it can be said that no citizen who took up arms lost ground in the struggle for existence; that no widow or child of a fallen soldier has been bereft of the opportunities to live in comfort, and to obtain the education that would have been certain but for the sacrifice of a soldier's life; when positions of responsibility throughout Canada, are as free to the returning men as to those who did not go overseas, then Repatriation will have been accomplished.

Repatriation is the biggest task Canada ever undertook. It is not a thing for an hour, but it is forever. It is a national task taking. The Government has prepared the machinery to receive the returning men and fit them back to civil life, but the persistent co-operation of the people of Canada is necessary if Repatriation is to be a success.

The moralist no more thinks of putting all his ideas into practice than the shoemaker does of wearing all the shoes he makes. Editor's Note: "What do they mean by poetic license? Does a poet have to pay for a license?" Her Husband (sadly): "No, if he did we'd have fewer poets."
