Dancey WEDNESDAY NIGHT MEETING.

There was a large turn out of ratepayers at the adjourned municipal election meeting on Wednesday evening.
On motion Mr. Horace Horton took in with the ideas, and instanced the opinion of Mr. Strachan, the talented Reeve of Grey, a good debater and solid Hon. Edward Blake's Aurora speech had compared the work done remen had taken exception to the working of the market by-law, and a deputation from the township of Colborne had protested against the the continuance of the tested against the the continuance of the fees. Shortly afterward the agitation to do, his friends would kindly ployme at for his spare time ployme at for his spare time became stronger, and the Council took off the fees on eggs, butter and similar small stuff. For this action Mr. Martin, the Market Clerk, claimed $150 com-pensation, and was awarded that amount by the Council. The matter was now before the electors, and they had the power in their own hands to settle it, if the by-law was working to the detriment of the town. He did not understand of the town. He did not understand why he was opposed by Mr. Smaill, un-less he attributed it to spleen on the part of that gentleman, because he (Mr. J.) in his place at the Council Board had ventured to criticise the high handed manufacturers in the shape of freedom manner in which he had acted when architect of the Town Hall. A publisharchitect of the Town Hall. A publisharchitect of the Town Hall. A publisharchitect of the Goderich harbor of the Goderich harbo Johnston was here read and commented

He believed in tearing dnwn all obstacles to trade which at present existed, and placing our harbor on an equal footing, so far as fees were con-cerned, with Kincardine, Collingwood, Sarnia and other points. He cited the opinion of Mr. Porteous of the G. T. R., Mr. Ggilvie, of Montreal, and others in support of the premises for which he contended. He also stated that when the deputation recently sent to Ottawa by the Town Council were in that city the matter to the notice of He had served the people of Goderich four years, and had endeavored to work for the benefit of the town. If the elec-tors saw that he had done his duty he claimed re-election. The business out look was now becoming brighter, and he looked for the early dawn of a prosperous future for Goderich. (Loud applause.)

Mr. Smaill stood as a candidate for the Reeveship, because, being an old public servant, he had been requested to do so by a large and influential body of the electors. If elected he would work for the good of the town, and not from for his conduct as chairman of the personal or ambitious motives. He was ing. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Wm. Campbell, secondbor although it had been circulated by Mr. Johnston that he was in favor of retaining the harbor tolls. This statement of his opponents he would most unquali fiedly deny. The matter was now in the hands of the Government, and would doubtless be solved at no distant day. The cow by-law was an injustice to the poorer class of the town, and had compelled many of them to sell their means of subsistence. He then explained the Town Hall embroglio between himself and Mr. Johnston, and contended that he had acted consistently all through. Mr. Johnston's doings in the County Council were then criticized, and the speaker pointed out that the interests of the town of Goderich had been sacrificed when Mr. Johnston recently voted $600 to a bridge in the township of Morris.

Mr. Johnston—I never voted $600 to the township of Morris, and if you can prove I did. I will immediately retire and allow you to walk the course. Mr. Smaill said Mr. Johnston had $600 for a bridge in a distant part of the County, but he could not remem-ber the exact location. By reference to the County Clerk's books it would be seen that he was right. After soliciting the support of the ratepayers on Monday next, the speaker resumed his seat.

Mr. Campbell, the next speaker, had number of years, and had done his duty in that position. He intended to contest the position of Deputy Reeve because he believed he had a right to it, now that a vacancy existed. Hiso pponent, Mr. Watson, claimed the position on the score of long service and faithful work. If that gentleman had been so good and faithful a servant why had his friends not placed him in the position years ago, and not let young men like Mr. Johnston head him off? Mr. Watson would not have been in Mr. Watson would not have been in the field now if Mr. Elijah Martin had Young: South Ward—R N Brett, O C not brought him out, and he was only Mr. Martin's second choice at that.
Why did not Mr. Watson contest the Second Deputy Reeveship, if he was anxious to sit in the County Council? The speaker then referred to his services during past years and stated that he had always been the champion of economy in the Council, instancing his action on the Silsby Fire Engine freight, and on the fraudulent census of 1876. He agreed with previous speakers on the agreed with previous speakers on the market question, and was not in favor of the imposition of fees. The cow question was also touched upon, and the action of M. Watson in canvassing was action of M. Watson in canvassing was criticised. The speaker closed by wish-ing the electors the compliments of the season and asking them for a New Years gift in the shape of their votes and in-fluence on the 3rd of January.

Mr. Crabb spoke in favor of obtaining increased railway facilities, a free harbor free market, and the encouragement o manufactures. He favored as refuge and also claimed that he had saved the town $2,200 at the demonstration at the opening of the Grand Trunk Railway at this point.

On motion Mr. Hutchison took the chair, so that Mr. Horton might address the electors.

Mr. Horton had only one or two points to touch. Mr. Crabb had claimed the credit of having had the harbor of refuge established at Goderich. Many of the gentlemen present would remem-ber that on that occasion he (Mr Horton) had gone to Detroit, and, with the assist ance of Hon. Richard Hawley, obtained the signatures of prominent shippers there to a memorial that had the most to by the Town Council were in that city they intimated to the Minister of Public Works that a breakwater, extending across from the north pier, was a necessiance Chief Engineer, had entertain-land the council were in that they intimated to the Minister of Public Goderich, notwithstanding that Mr. Crabb had done the whole thing single-handed. H.) had to go it alone against them. The municipal questions had been very fully discussed this year, and he sincerely hoped the best men to legislate for the welfare of the town would be chosen.

(Hear hear.)
Moved by F. W. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Hutchison, that the thanks of the meeting be tendered to Mr. Horton
