Victim's Body Was Decapitated-Head Found in a Furnace.

New York, Sept. 29.-James B. Craft, a wealthy resident of Glen Cove, Long Island, was murdered Saturday, and his body decapitated, in a Tenderloin resort known as the Empire Garden day in their apartments in West Cafe in West Twenty-ninth street, within a few doors of Broadway. All the evidence goes to show, say the nearest police station, where he handed police, that Craft, who had been making the rounds of the Tenderloin, incautiously displayed a large amount of money in the Empire, and was killed by one of the waiters, known as Thomas Tobin, for the purpose of robbery. The police also say that knockout drops were first administered, and that Berger. She was a sister of Mrs. then the victim was dragged into the basement and killed with a cleaver.

The odor of burning flesh attracted the attention of the occupants of the upper part of the house early in the morning and led to the discovery by detectives of the nude and headless body of a man in the basement. Another Murder Mystery in Darkest Chicago.

A YOUNG WOMAN IS THE VICTIM

Hulda Swanson Mutilated in a Most Shooking Manner-No Arrests Made.

Chicago, Sept. 27.-The Record-Herald says: A murder mystery of a most appalling sort developed last night with the disce my of the body of a young woman in the alley near Chicago avenue and Larrabee street Suggestive of the dark crimes of London in the "Ripper" days, when both the high and the lowly fell before the clutches of an unknown assassin, this tragedy for hours following its inception baffled the keenest officers of the East Chicago avenue police station.

The remains of a woman, aged about 25 years, well garbed and with features marked with traces of refinement, were stumbled over by a teamster named James Murphy, sometimes called Fink, at 9:50 o'clock in the alley at the rear of a blacksmith shop at the southwest corner of Chicago avenue and Larrabee street. Murphy was able to claim the favor of the police by quickly hurrying to the East Chicago avenue station and telling of what he had seen in the alley. Murphy declared he had started in the alley to make a short cut home, and in the profound darkness that hung over the place had not noticed anything in his way and had thus tripped over the woman's remains. He was ordered held by Lieut. Miller.

Peter Schaus was the first officer to make a careful survey of the body as it lay in the mud near an empty wagon that stood near the door of the little on Sept. 11. blacksmith shop. Detectives Garrigan and Jackson were among the first to go out on the mystery, and they soon gathered in the assistant bridge tender at the Erie bridge, named John Herrity. Herrity viewed the body and said he knew the woman.
