very Sunday Ontario Farmer Better Off.

One thing which the minister ound in his trip overseas was that e Ontario farmer was much off than the farmer in any other ountry he visited.

He felt many things were to be earned from these places, but they better. The old tenant system injured farming in England. Very few farmers own their own land. After the war many of the land owners decided to sell their farms. Everything was in flated at the time, and those who bought are now loaded with mort gages. Then taxes in England are very heavy.

The contrast between England and Denmark is very marked. England devotes a great deal of land to parks and meadows. Wages on English of London receive about 30 cent an hour and skilled labor about
