EAST END TOWN HALL IS URGED FOR GAMES

On the request of Ald. Greer and Ald. McKay an inquiry will be made to see if the East End town hall is suitable for use as a girls' basketball gymnasium. Aldermen were previously of the opinion that indoor games would cause damage to the walls and ceilings and applications of sporting organizations were ruled out. However, it has been pointed out that the hall is too small for playing indoor baseball and that girls' basketball would cause no seridamage to the plastered walls ceiling.

London, Nov. 3. — The Prince of Wales may possibly renounce his right to the throne of England. This rumor kept the Prince eager company during his trip from America on the liner Olympic last week, and greeted him as it was whispered through the crowds when he arrived at Southampton, home again after his vacation.

The rumor set the whole boat buzzing before the voyage was halfway done. The Prince himself scoffed at it. But one of his aides went to the trouble of issuing an official denial.

Perhaps the circulation of the rumor was one reason for the extrapordinary censorship on the Olympic.

Every tone is true. That the London audience appreciated her playing was evident by the reception which she reecived.

Her numbers were Ravel's "Playng Fountains" and Debussy's "The Sunken Cathedral," and Chopin's "Ballade in F Major." The differen voices of the second numbers were brought out in marvellous fashion by the artist.

De Kresz and Norah De Kresz were heard together in the opening number of the evening. Brahms' briltiant Sonata in D minor. Equally brilliant was the Beethoven Sonata Op. 30, No.3, which brought the evening to a triumphant close. It was rendered by both artists who have played so much together that their work is in absolute harmony.
