In the September Scribner, the first place is given to the article by Professor Andrews which discusses the fight between General Grant and James Blaine for the Republican nomination in 1880, ending with the stampede of the latter's supporters to Garfield, his election and subsequent assassination six weeks after that of the Czar of Russia. It also contains interesting matter concerning the working of the "Spoils System" in the civil service. Robert Grant's series of essays on the "Art of Living" takes up "The Case of Man" and the illustrations are capital. "Miss Jerry, the first Picture Play" is good. The idea is to use photographs from life to illustrate a story, while at the same time the story is to some extent moulded to suit the photographs. The quantity of reading matter is thus shortened since the pictures give all the descriptions of the scenes. "Hunt Clubs in America," including the Montreal Hunt Club (the oldest organized one on the continent), and those of Toronto and London, besides those of the U.S.A., should make interesting reading to all who have ever tasted the excitement of a run with the hounds. Many will endorse the dictum that while "there are men who like to jump high fences, doubtless the more common experience is that a five-foot fence affords a delightful sensation after one is about three-quarters over it, but that up to that point it is a solemn and unwelcome obstacle that cannot be dodged without loss and regret." Another article which appeals to Canadians is a memoir of some days outing in the Lake of St. John district, with vivid descriptions of shooting rapids, making portages, and fishing in the streams and lakes which go to make up the gloomy Saugenay. The stories by George Meredith and Anthony Hope are continued and there is the usual complement of poetry.

THREE WANTS.

"Reason's whole pleasure, all the joys of sense,
Live in three words, health, peace and competence."

So says the poet. Competence counts for little when one is sick, and peace is disturbed when health is upset, so that the poet rightly places health first. To have good health you must have pure blood. From the blood the system receives all its material of growth and repair. The best blood-purifier is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is world-famed and sold everywhere. It is a sovereign remedy for all diseases due to impoverished or impure blood, as consumption, bronchitis, weak lungs, scrofula, old sores, skin diseases, and kindred ailments.

Delicate diseases of either sex, however induced, promptly, thoroughly, and permanently cured. Send 10 cents in stamps for large illustrated treatise, sent securely sealed in plain envelope. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N.Y.
