

NOTICE TO READERS

The Canadian Trade Office in Taipei has identified opportunities in Taiwan for Canadian seafood exporters. Due to the increased liberalization of the Taiwan economy, and other domestic factors which could lead to increased imports of seafood to the market, opportunities may exist for Canadian exporters to Taiwan. The publication of this publication is an attempt to highlight the regulatory factors and variables which influence exports to the Taiwan seafood market.

Market information in this publication is organized to assist Canadian exporters interested in the Taiwan seafood market. It provides information on the economic environment of the Taiwan market, such as population, land area, currency, standards, language, religion, and other factors which may influence the market. It also provides information on the regulatory environment, such as import procedures, licensing, and other factors which may influence the market.

Market information is organized to assist Canadian exporters interested in the Taiwan seafood market. It provides information on the economic environment of the Taiwan market, such as population, land area, currency, standards, language, religion, and other factors which may influence the market. It also provides information on the regulatory environment, such as import procedures, licensing, and other factors which may influence the market.

ABSTRACT

Taiwan: Guidelines for Canadian Fish Exporters 1995 provides an overview of the Taiwanese market for seafood, including information on various aspects of the Taiwanese economy and other factors influencing seafood exports to the market, including: fisheries contacts; country data; the domestic fishery; market access conditions; transportation; market observations; tips on approaching the market; major Taiwanese seafood importers.

This report was prepared by David Wong, Senior Trade Officer and Eric Song, Commercial Officer, Canadian Trade Office, Taipei, Taiwan, and edited by Tami Geller of Morris Street Laboratories and Martin Foubert, Foreign Affairs and International Trade, Ottawa.