

We have acted in defence of the ecosystem, be it to clean the waters that lap the shores of this city or to protect the fragile ozone layer that envelopes our planet.

We have accomplished much, together, and the challenge now, as friends, or neighbours, as leaders in a troubled world, and as the closest of neighbours in this global village is to continue to act in that North American international tradition.