

To address these concerns, the Commission has recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country. The Commission also recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country. The Commission also recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country.

RECOMMENDATION

The Commission has recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country. The Commission also recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country. The Commission also recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country.

RECOMMENDATION

The Commission has recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country. The Commission also recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country. The Commission also recommended that the Government should establish a national health services commission to coordinate and monitor the health services provided in the country.