

QUESTION 3rd.

ANSWER of the grain ing, partic operation the loads w apart and weight of t without su

As the c only be en

QUESTION this same c

ANSWER of the accou side, the flo or to mark either for down to th ches, and t

QUESTION and someti

ANSWER chant's sto them again he arrange losses he c his charges goods. In terioration entries and of either b raise the p will find m the anima with such

What i fore, to lo

These e ment, wh

(Example of Store Account for Grain and Fodder.)

GRAIN AND FODDER STORE.

ENTRIES.	GRIND- ING.		GRAIN.		ROOTS.		HAY.	STRAW.		Prices of articles entered.	OUT GOINGS.	GRIND- ING.		GRAIN.		ROOTS.		HAY.	STRAW.		Prices of articles taken out.
	Flour.	Bran.	Indian Corn.	Peas.	Barley.	Wheat.		Oats.	Potatoes.			Red Beets.	Carrots.	Peas.	Barley.	Wheat.	Oats.		Timothy and Clover.	Peas.		Barley.	Wheat.	Oats.
DATES.

(1) The reader need not look for any connection between the different accounts contained in this work; the author having in contemplation merely to bring under notice those cases which offered some difficulties, has not attempted to make either his accounts or the items which form each of the examples accord.