involve recognition of the Huerta government, but was merely an act of the same character as grasping the hand of an individual who was apologizing as he extended it. Secretary Bryan, too, took the view that the American salute would be given to the flag of the Mexican nation, just as much respected by the Constitutionalists as the Huerta government, an no technical recognition was involved.

As the storm clouds lifted and a wave of satisfaction spread through official quarters, President Wilson arranged to go to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for the week-end, and Secretary Bryan planned to take his long-delayed trip to Florida.

While the president declared the firing of the salute would cause no particular bearing on the general Mexican policy of the administration. Other offences, such as the arrest of a mail officer at Vera Cruz, however, would be treated as such.

Critic Silenced. A Republican Senator Lodge of the foreign relations committee, who had said early in the day that to return the salute would nullify the effect of the apology, withdrew his criticism after a telephone conversation with Secretary Bryan. The mission of the committee was informed that such a salute would be given to the flag of the Mexican nation, just as much respected by the Constitutionalists as the Huerta government, an no technical recognition was involved.

Foreign Pressure. In reply to the character of the pressure which had been brought on the Huerta government, Secretary Bryan said that foreign governments had an active interest in the events of the Mexican revolution. Both the French and German ambassadors, after conferences at the state department, were in communication. It is understood, with their representatives in Mexico City, that the phase of the situation was a well-authenticated report that the last statement of a loan due by Huerta was about to be held up by foreign bankers if he did not comply with the American demands.

MASTER BARBERS MEET

The annual meeting of the Master Barbers' Association was held in the Labor Temple last night, and was well attended by the city barbers. Last year's officers were returned by a unanimous vote. The meeting expressed appreciation of the way in which the master barbers of Toronto had stood by the early closing bylaw.

COUNCIL AGAIN PARES ESTIMATES

But the Tax Rate Will Be Nineteen Mill This Year.

SCHOOL EXPENDITURES

Some Aldermen Would Let School Board Collect Own Taxes.

There was unlimited enquiry and criticism of the estimates at the afternoon session of the city council yesterday, but the totals had been so pared down to permit a 19-mill tax rate that further reductions were demanded by only a small minority.

An item in expenditure of $56,000 to redeem a mortgage on buildings in Exhibition Park was attacked so persistently by Ald. F. Spence that he got a majority vote to strike it out. In the estimates the item set forth that two months since the Toronto city treasurer retired, and there certainly had not been enough time for the new treasurer to get his new system of accounting in operation.

Then Controller Church pointed at the board of education estimates for ten minutes. "Too many fads and fancies," he said. "Surely we have been listening to nothing for ten minutes," Ald. Hiltz remarked.

School Estimates. "The board of education should do its own financing," Mayor Hocken declared, "and then those who spend the money would have to go up against the ratepayers." Ald. Hiltz defended the school estimates. "The members of the board of education have as well developed mentality as have the members of the city council," he declared, "and they conduct the government of school affairs as well as the city council could."

Controller Church also strongly defended the estimates and the public school system. Ald. Maybes denounced "little mother" in the schools, and moved that $100,000 be struck off the school estimates. Ald. Maguire supported the motion.

"Strikes out all of the school estimates," Ald. F. Spence facetiously suggested. "There are a great many fads in our schools to the exclusion of important studies," said Ald. Cameron. "It compels teachers to send children home to study hard in the evening to make up for the time occupied during the day with fads. Teachers who have taught in the country and the city tell me that they can teach more in a month in the country than in a year in the city," he said. "The city teachers have no individuality, but are mere machines. When I want an office boy or girl it is seldom I can get one who can do the work."

"The first step to economy in the board of education would be to have the school taxes levied and collected by the board," said Ald. Dunn. Ald. Maybes's motion that $100,000 be struck off the school estimates was lost, he and Controller Church only pressed it to a vote of 11 to 21.

Ald. Maguire then moved that $50,000 be struck off, but it had no support. The school estimates were adopted.

Hospital Deficit. "Does the $318,435 estimate for public hospitals include the $20,000 asked for to assist in meeting the deficit in the maintenance of the Toronto General Hospital?" Ald. Wickert asked. "No," Controller McCarthy answered, "but we will take the matter up carefully before long. We are not ignoring the matter."

Controller Church moved that $25,000 be struck off the estimates for the health department. Ald. E. Spence pressed it to a vote of 11 to 21. Haslings expended last year the $45,000 more than the appropriation for his department. Controller McCarthy referred him to the printed information supplied with the estimates.

Ald. Wickert asked if the board of control had provided for economy in the department of health. "There is general dissatisfaction over that system of inspection," he said. "There is too much overlapping."

"I saw three separate inspectors on the same street, in the same block, at the same time," Ald. Cameron declared. "Prevention is much better than cure, but there can be too many inspectors."

Inspection Department. "We are not arranging to combine inspection and will likely have an inspection department," Controller McCarthy said. "Such a department would effect could that if an inspection department would combine the work of inspection from the health, works, architect's and other departments it would stop enough overlapping."

ROYALTY'S RECOGNITION OF THE KNIGHT ENGINE.

To few men's lot falls such recognition of their efforts as that which has been awarded the inventor of the Knight Engine by men of high positions, both here and abroad.

The Knight Engine was first "royally" discovered by the present King of England during the late Prince of Wales's visit to the city of London.

King George had been given a careful and practical training in the navy, and was thus in a position to appreciate the mechanical superiority of the Knight Engine. His attention was one day called to it by King Edward.

He examined it critically, took a demonstration and ordered a 38 h.p. 4-cylinder forthwith, and was so well pleased with his new acquisition that he recommended his father to secure a car with this type of motor. Thus it came about that King Edward's Daimler car, which was used almost exclusively during the remainder of his life. Royal orders followed from the English court, until today the royal garage contains Knight motor cars almost exclusively, and the present King and Queen use no other.

SUCCESSFUL CUSTOMS SALE

On Wednesday and Thursday an interesting public sale of unclaimed goods in the customs department was held, and attracted a large attendance. Bidding was spirited, and a rapid disposal was made of the numerous and varied collection. The sale was conducted by the dean of Toronto auctioneers, Chas. Henderson, with his usual tact and ability.
