

CRAWFORD ABUSES CANADA'S PREMIER

Also Tells Clerics to Keep Their Fingers Out of Political Fire.

That the function of the cleric in the province, although important, had no place in the political arena, nor did it have anything to do with censoring of films, was the statement made by Lindsay Crawford, editor of The Statesman, speaking at the People's Forum in St. George's Hall last night. Neither did their functions extend to drink, said Mr. Crawford, but rather to the greater duty, the development of moral character and opinion, and thus in men whom they have thus developed vicariously represented in the political field.

Mr. Crawford said that he was speaking on his own behalf as a Liberal, and he spoke of the recent striking political happenings in the province. As a Liberal he presented the suggestion that Liberalism was a dead issue, or an obsolete creed. Mr. Crawford said that he was speaking without being in any way antagonistic to the other parties in power.

The cause of the recent change has been the effort of the people in seeking a better government, and in this respect he said that the Liberal party had liberated the people in the past, and had installed a more efficient government. This had not been the case recently, said the speaker, who spoke of the rise of executive power as demonstrated during the war, which he said had become a dictatorship and omnipotent ruler without a parliament and practically without the people. "All good government," said Mr. Crawford, "rests on the consent of the governed."

Should Speak For All. He was against the expression of individual voices by any government, and thought that a government should speak for all. Mr. Crawford said that in this way all interests, be they large or small, would be forced to come to the people to justify their existence. The whole aim of the people was to secure good government by the people.

The speaker criticized the way the Canadian representative were treated at the peace conference, where, he said, they did not go as Canadians, but as imperialists. The handling of the peace treaty, said the speaker, was characterized as disgraceful by the speaker, who said it was humiliating to any parliament that was responsible to the people. "We have so far forgotten the precepts of responsible government that we have ceased to criticize," said the speaker, who told of the promise of 500,000 men by Sir Robert Borden without a mandate from the people.

FOXES RUN DOWN QUEEN Sir Robert Borden came in for a good deal of abuse, especially over the recent G.T.R. bill, where he had threatened to dissolve parliament. Incidentally, the speaker characterized the G.T.R. deal as one where the government was trying to plunder the Canadian treasury, who held up English stockholders. "Infamous and criminal," was the way Mr. Crawford described the entire business.

RIVERDALE LIBERTY LEAGUE TO BE ENTIRELY REORGANIZED

"The Citizens' Liberty League is not going to lay down in the night for the just rights and liberties of the people," said Roy J. Tanner, president of the Liberty League, at a meeting of the Riverdale branch, at the World yesterday. "At present we are holding meetings all over Northern Ontario explaining to the people the 'strick ballot' used in the referendum and how they had been voted against it. These meetings are causing much interest among the people," declared Mr. Tanner, who added that very soon the C. L. L. will hold a convention in Toronto when delegates from all over the province will be present and the league will be reorganized upon a permanent basis. "I intend to urge upon the convention that the C. L. L. should be reorganized upon a permanent basis, and I will further urge," said Mr. Tanner, "that the U. C. F. O. government be requested to enact legislation to make it possible for liquor and beer to be obtained in such quantities as agreed upon by the legislative council through government agents without doctors' prescriptions."

"We are going to hold meetings in Toronto similar to the gatherings now being held in Riverdale," said Mr. Tanner, "and we are also going to take up the question of compulsory vaccination and the threatened propaganda of the U. C. F. O. against the use of tobacco."

EARLSCOURT DANGERS ALLEGED IN VACCINATION

British Imperial Association Hear Many Diatribes Against Operation.

To be or not to be vaccinated occupied the attention of a well-attended meeting called by the British Imperial Association at the Earlscourt Public School on Saturday night. George Mills, president, opened the chair, and informed the meeting that the U. C. F. O. was not opposed to vaccination but only to the way it had been carried out, the children attending the city hall for vaccination having been very differently treated. He explained that the meeting was called at a letter of regret at not being able to attend, and another was sent by M. O. H. Dr. Hastings, a report occupying six long pages, which the meeting decided it did not wish to hear read.

Dr. Hastings, a chiropractor, condemned vaccination as a menace to good health and said that much of the disease was taken from corpses and from calves that were suffering from foot and mouth disease. Venereal diseases often followed in the wake of vaccination, he said. The health bulletins were often misleading, and he instanced the case of St. Paul, U. S. A., as being practically free from smallpox after abolishing compulsory vaccination.

Not Isolated. Mr. Hull, another speaker, in condemning Dr. Hastings' order, said it was a strange thing if smallpox was so dangerous that it should be isolated. He said that an old man who was being shaved in a barber shop, suddenly subject to a rash, was taken to a hospital, where he died. In England isolation was demanded, and should be so in Canada, he said.

Mr. W. Nimmo produced facts and figures in his contention that vaccination had been a failure. The right of H. had been proved, he said, in thinking there was an epidemic. There was no such thing as pure vaccine virus, and it came from a medical man to prove his assertion. In 1909 Lord Kitchener stopped compulsory vaccination in the British army, and the late war vaccination had not been resorted to. Mr. Nimmo said he had lost a boy through vaccination, and stated that his other three children were inoculated with vaccine virus.

REAL ESTATE BOOM PROBABLE Another real estate boom is likely to follow the sale of a large tract of building land on North Lander avenue, north of St. Clair, which has been announced by the Brook Sykes agency office, St. Clair ave. The land occupies a high position, overlooking the south end of Fairbank and Earlscourt on the south and Fairbank and Oakwood northwest. It is to be set up into small building lots for the erection of moderate priced houses which are greatly in demand in the Earlscourt district.

TODMORDEN James MacGowan, secretary Todmorden Poultry, Pet Stock and Backyard Garden Association, pointed out at a recent meeting in Todmorden that the members of their association are "doing their bit" as far as poultry is concerned in the re-establishment and the return of birds to their section. During the past season 33 baskets of fruit and vegetables have been distributed among the families of returned men; 100 baskets have been sent to Hamilton asylum; 23 dozen settings of eggs have been given to soldiers and others who apply to the association had settings of eggs or chicks delivered at their homes. Mr. MacGowan had personally supplied 14 sets of Leghorn leghorn eggs, and useful advice on the raising and care of poultry had been freely given by the association.

At a recent returned veterans' meeting in Toronto avenue school, Todmorden, the wife of a crippled soldier unable to leave his bed, appealed to the comrades to occasionally visit their bed-ridden fellow soldiers at their homes and cheer them with a social chat and the review of current happenings in the outside world in which, thru their disabilities, they are unable to take their part. The suggestion was well received by the gathering, and arrangements will be made for regular visits in the district.

"There has not been a single case of smallpox brought to my notice in the Todmorden district," said Dr. R. H. Fleming, county coroner, to The World yesterday, "and nothing approaching an epidemic in the district. The school trustees were very wise, in my opinion, in not enforcing vaccination in the schools, but merely recommending that children be home if the parents so desired," he said.

DANFORTH RATEPAYERS "FED UP"

The proposal of the city council to seek legislation to infringe on the rights of another is too ridiculous to be entertained," said Albert Hanna, secretary Danforth ratepayers' association, to The World yesterday, who pointed out that the scheme is to tax one person on a 50 per cent basis and another on 100 per cent. "The ratepayers are already 'fed up' with the policy of exploiting the citizens' money in the selfish, narrow self-centered policy and let me remind your council," said Mr. Hanna, "that a just tax does not discriminate one person's wealth from another's. It is based upon what you receive from your investments."

STORE OF LIQUOR CLEVERLY HIDDEN

Secret Chamber Beneath Window Sill Held Many Bottles.

Beneath the window sill in the front upstairs room of 59 Sullivan street, Inspector Bond and Plaidothesman Ward found a small keyhole in the woodwork and, breaking the lock, the police discovered a hiding place where 150 bottles of whiskey had been stored. Small Sumbson, occupant of the room, was arrested, charged with "having liquor for sale."

Inspector Bond and Ward were told that it was only necessary to touch a small button and the woodwork would fall out in front of them. The informant was positive that the hiding place was equipped with electrical appliances. At 11 o'clock the police entered the house and getting down on their hands and knees with the flashlight, Bond and Ward roamed around the room for the magic button. Inspector Bond discovered that a piece of the woodwork below one of the windows had been filled with plaster of paris. He knocked the plaster of paris off and found a small lock.

Reclaim E. Gwillimbury Marsh For Use as Market Garden

Queenville, Ont., Nov. 16.—(Special)—The council of East Gwillimbury have at last moved in the direction of reclaiming the Holland Marsh. For years it has been a dream of many people to see this marsh reclaimed and become a market garden area of the city of Toronto. Various schemes have been devised, but today the council of East Gwillimbury have undertaken the first real move as a municipal enterprise and have decided the E. A. James Company, Limited, Toronto, to prepare plans and specifications for the reclaiming of 6,000 acres of the Holland Marsh.

The scheme will involve a dyke, canal and a pumping plant to keep the water in the retained area lower than Lake Simcoe. It is expected that the work will proceed this winter so that next year the ground may be cropped.
