No one doubts that the present Government will be returned by a substantial majority after one of the quietest campaigns on record. This, of course, is due to the complete paralysis and tack the distribution of leadership of the Liberals. Port Hope, Sept. 15.—(Special.)—The tourist oraiors left Cobourg at 7 o'clock and reached Port Hope at 7.30 p.m. The station platform was crowded with citizens, while the roadway for half a mile was lined with men, carrying torches, and horsemen, with difficulty restraining their steeds. A military band was present, and played "Oh, Listen to the Band," the one and only tune that has been played during the whole tour.

Port Hope Was Crowded.

The town was crowded with people from the outlying country, and this, together with the numerous flags and banners and mottoes, illuminated houses and bonfires, made the town en fete.

The procession went thru the main streets to the accompaniment of the band and the cheers of seven thousand throats. It was a naudelence that brought forth the best efforts of the orators and in order, attention, appreciation and enthusiasm no audients and his lieutenants equalled what Port Hope presented. Saturdy night's meeting and it showed what drawing cards the Conservative leaders can be. The torchlight procession was also a novel idea and it was not difficult to distinguish among the sturdy participants in the procession and the meeting, the stalwart Conservatives from the Township of Cavan and Manvers. These townships are strongholds of Orangelsm. The north of the riding certainly have the heaviest part of the demonstration. Port Hope, tho Liberal, was not far behind, for citizens, irrespective of party, put themselves out to make the reception, and will last forever to make the leaders welcome.
