LONDON, Sept. 2.—There are possibilities of another scandal in connecdown of one will in no way affect the operation of the other fifteen.

The generating engines of the turbine type will occupy less space than the present type of an engine, and will require much less coal. A passenger liner can carry little more coal than suffices for the voyage from New York to Liverpool. Mr. Painton claims that his boat will be able to carry enough coal for a voyage from New York to Gibraltar and back and will consequently have more room for cargo.

where he can do nothing. Another proposition is to make a similar change of situation in respect of the naval school of gunnery.

Some very strong comments upon these amazing proposals have just been printed in "The Broad Arrow."

Chatham, that journal points out, is some twenty-five miles from the North sea, the usual training ground for naval gunnery, and there is no place along the Medway where they could fire a gun. Chatham, as a dockyard for building ships and for repairing them, may be reckoned, says the Broad Arrow, as the best in the United Kingdom, but to gather a large number of dom, but to gather a large number of ships and to keep them shut up in its
