Hub Women Unlikely to Obey

Boston, Jan. 7.—The editor of a suburban daily newspaper comes out in strong terms of contempt for the Hub's yellowest journal which offered a prize for the most appropriate song to be played at Symphony Hall on the occasion of Senator Lodge's recent address, and awarded it to the person who suggested "Rescue the Perishing." This suburban newspaper man says editorially that the Boston paper "makes so much noise that it reminds says editorially that the Boston paper
"makes so much noise that it reminds us of the man in the restaurant who exclaimed: 'Waiter, take that man's soup away; I can't hear the band,'
and suggests forcibly that the band
master dedicate a song entitled "Mind
Your Own Business and Let It Alone" to bis noisy assection. The price Your Own Business and Let It Alone" to his noisy associate. The prize competition, indeed, has impressed many readers as about on a par with the cheap ribaldry of the so-called musical programme rendered at Provincetown during Governor-elect Foss' meeting. It might be remarked parenthetically that there were some other differences in the methods of conducting these two affairs.

What, women to wear bag trousers? Yet not Boston women. The seven gods and multitudinous fishes of Massachusetts Bay forbid!. The hated hobble is mostly a show skirt in Boston; few of them are worn by the gomen with net bags who are so characteristically Bostonese. Nor is Bostonian conservatism in wearing apparel so altogether undesirable. It is bad enough to look like idiots because the wise manufacturers who dictate fashions say so; but who wants to be translated into a replica of one of the ladies of the harem? The touch of henna and the Orlental veil are minor accessories to the completion of this transformation.

are minor accessories to the completion of this transformation.

The expected has happened, as everybody knew it would. Mr. Baklanoff, who was summarily dismissed from the Boston Opera Company, and thus indirectly from the leading opera companies of this country at the eleventh hour before the first presentation of an important opera, is said to be about to return to the stage and favor of this institution. He must forfeit ten thousand dollars, so say the reports, and apologize to the entire company, but that is a small stake to a singer of his reputation when a whole season is in the balance. The feminine public, needless to say, would gladly welcome Mr. Baklanoff, figuratively, if not literally, with open arms, and doubtless the advertising arising from the little disagreement between the eminent opera director and his big song bird will redound to their mutual advantage.

Boston benefits in unexpected ways, from the rivalry of French and Germans Kaiser Wilhelm, some years ago formed the good tabit of every now and then sending a few tons of plaster casts over to itarvard Germanic Muscaum. Other great personages of the Fatherland like Prince Luitpold of Bavaria, have done likewise. Now the French government, not to be outdone, is also leosening up. The University of Cambridge has Just received a consignment of exquisite Sevres porceinine from Paris which, installed at the Fogg Museum of Art in Cambridge is of a kind to make the amateur porceinin collector's mouth water.
