

WEDDINGS

Bergholtz-Tingley.

Dorchester, N. B., July 2.—In the Methodist church here this morning a very pretty wedding took place when Neill Elizabeth, second daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. S. W. Tingley, became the bride of Edwin Oswald Bergholtz, son of German Consul and Mrs. W. Bergholtz, of Montreal. James Cripp, the pastor of the church tied the knot, and a united choir rendered the music.

The bride was beauteously attired in a gown of chantilly lace and crepe de chene over white satin with bridal veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Little Miss Mollie Stevens, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father while the wedding march was played. Miss Gilda Tingley, sister of the bride, presided at the organ, and the church was decorated in a most attractive manner by the friends of the bride.

The groom's present to the bride was a sunburst of pearls; to the organist, a pearl pendant, and to the flower girl a ring. The happy couple left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and returned to the residence of the bride's father where a dainty luncheon was served, after which they left by the Montreal express on a tour of Prince Edward Island, thence to Montreal where they will reside.

Among the out of town guests present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Bergholtz, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Stevens, of Amherst; Miss Maud Gieson, of Richibucto; Miss Grace Cole, Amherst, and others.

Munro-Austen.

Dartmouth, July 1.—One of the prettiest and most fashionable weddings of the season took place last evening at 6.30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howe Austen, Pleasant street, when their youngest daughter, Katherine Drury, became the bride of Frederick J. Munro, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Munro, Marguerite Harbor. The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, which had been decorated for the occasion with cut flowers and potted plants. Rev. E. E. Bishop, pastor of King street Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Neil Hartman, pastor of McPhail Memorial church, Ottawa, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of guests.

At the hour appointed the bride entered the room, leaning on the arm of her father, by whom she was given away, the wedding march being skillfully rendered by Miss Florence J. Haggarty of Halifax. The bride is admitted to be one of Dartmouth's prettiest young women and as she entered the room, looked the picture of girlish grace. Her costume was a New York creation of white duchess satin and shadow lace with pearl trimmings, the draperies of the gown being caught up by diamond sprays of orange white and blue embroidered net crowned with a garland of orange blossoms. The bouquet was a shower of American beauty white roses, white carnations, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern.

The bride's ornaments were of the latest Parisian idea, consisting of a necklace, bracelet, finger ring and ear drops, all of orange blossoms, imported direct from Paris. The only attendant was the flower girl, little Miss Dorothy DeGruchy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. DeGruchy, of Halifax. This little Miss looked charming in a dainty frock of white shadow lace over white silk with pretty cap of the same material and carrying a basket of pink carnations and maiden hair fern.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was partaken of and the happy couple left by the night train to spend a few days with the parents of the groom. Returning they go to Toronto and from there to the Pacific coast, stopping at the principal cities en route, returning east by the United States route, the trip extending over a period of four months.

The bride's going away costume was heavily corded with blue and green, with a Parisian model hat of silk tulle, the trimmings of which were Sumid, running into tango shades.

The bride is extremely popular in social circles. The collection of wedding gifts was extremely large, and of rare value. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond and sapphire ring. To the flower maid a pink cameo set ring and to the pianist a sterling silver card case with monogram engraved in old English. From the groom and the groom's brother, E. F. Munro, checks for substantial amounts were received. There was an extensive collection of gifts from the class, from other friends and relatives in the United States and Canada. A number of beautiful costumes were worn by guests. Mrs. Austen, mother of the bride, wore purple brocade crepe de chene. The groom is popular in business circles, being a member of the ness circles, being the Canadian representative of Lawson and Sons, London.

Hume-Northrup.

An interesting wedding took place in the Bellefleur Creek Methodist church, when Miss Lena Blanche Northrup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Northrup, was married to Eberhart Lorne Hume, of Florenceville, N. B. Rev. S. Young performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her father and was dressed in a blue suit with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of roses. Mr. and Mrs. Hume left on a trip through Nova Scotia. Mrs. Hume was a graduate of the General Hospital, St. John.

new business for a large policy and ten times the first weekly payment on industrial policies. The agreement was only verbal and the plaintiff said that it was also agreed he could leave or be dismissed without notice. He said he worked for the company for one week when he was offered another position and Mr. Dryden, manager of the company, said he would write to the head office and get his money. This was on May 19 and the witness said he had not yet received anything.

Archibald Dryden, manager of the company, contended that there was really no agreement as there was nothing written. He said it all rested with the head office of the company what the plaintiff should get. He said that most of the collectors got $6 a week but he had recommended that $12 should be paid which was the amount paid by other industrial companies. James Marshall was called as a witness and said the agreement, which he overheard, was that Purdy should get $6 and application would be made for $12. Judgment was given for the plaintiff with costs. J. F. H. Teed appeared for the plaintiff.
