

	PAGE
16.—1733-1734—War between the tribes of the North and those of the South—Temporary residence on the eastern shore of the lake of the Woods—Maize and pea harvest Marin Urtubise in command at Fort St. Pierre—A band of Assiniboines and Crees visits Fort St. Charles—Information respecting the Mandans—Departure on March 9th, 1734, of two Frenchmen for Lake Winnipeg and the Red River to select a site for a fort—Jean-Baptiste de La Vérendrye accompagnies a war expedition as councillor—Fort aux Roseaux is begun sometime near August 1734 and Fort Maurepas is built in the autumn of 1734—Financial difficulties—The Discoverer sets back for Montreal in the summer of 1734.....	41
17.—The return to Fort St. Charles with Father Aulneau, S.J. 1735—Death of La Jemmeraye May 10th, 1735, at the Fourche aux Roseaux—Mission of Father Aulneau—Death of Father Aulneau and of Jean-Baptiste de La Vérendrye, eldest son of the Explorer, at Massacre Island, in June 1736—Consequences of this disaster—Notes on Father Aulneau—Prepare for his great expedition of 1738	62
18.—Departure for the West, spring 1738—His sons continue trading in his absence—Fort La Reine built October 1738, and Fort Rouge at the Fourche (Winnipeg)....	86
19.—Two subsidiary forts—The first on the Piguis Reserve, the second on the South shore of the Assiniboine by M. de Louvières (D'Amours)—Site of Fort La Reine—Old name of the Assiniboine River and Red River.....	90
20.—Expedition of La Vérendrye to the Mandanes from October 18th, 1738, to February 10th, 1739—Remarks on the Mandanes	93
21.—Exploration of Chevalier La Vérendrye about Manitoba, Dauphin, Winnipegosis and Bourbon Lakes and the Saskatchewan River in 1739—Departure of La Véren-	