

TWO FIRST-CLASS SHOWS

At The Savoy and Orpheum Theaters Last Night.

A Great Crowd Was at The Savoy to See the Opening Performance—Orpheum Draws Large Audience.

From the time the Savoy orchestra played its first number last evening till among the very small hours this morning interest and amusement never flagged an instant, and not one out of the greatest crowd that has congregated at a Dawson play house on a single occasion during many moons, but what felt he was glad he was there. Very early in the evening the house was filled to its utmost seating capacity, and running over in all directions. The aisles were filled, all open spaces large enough to afford standing room were crowded, and the platforms and stairways between the upper floors and the stage were not overlooked.

The evening's bill opened with John Flynn's burlesque, "The Century Club," which was a great success, and admittedly a laugh bringer. Jennie Guichard as Daisy Wildwood endeared herself to the hearts of the Dawson theater goers by her rendition of the character and the support was equal to the lead.

Billy Onslow and Larry Bryant, the knock-about, were in it also, and everyone knew they were there and what their business was.

The bill was a long one, and the management, therefore, have inaugurated the practice of ringing up the drop at the advertised time, 8:30, and will continue in the practice.

Among the many hits of the evening was a very decided one, and deservedly so, recorded by Lillian Walthers and Elaine Forest the popular duettists. These singers were recalled again and again by the enthusiastic audience, which is always appreciative of good things, and quite competent to sit in judgment on productions covering a wide field.

Madame Lloyd, late of the Orpheum, of San Francisco, is an operatic artist with one of the best and strongest soprano voices ever heard in the west, and she has a stage presence which is worthy of the music she is capable of producing.

The Bryant and Onslow knock-about comedy team is exceedingly bright and clever, and decidedly up-to-date, being funny and clean as well.

The closing number of the program was the performance given by Stanley and Scamlon, the musical oddity and comedy team, whose work was bright and modern, and quite naturally held the attention of the audience to the end.

The management, in the persons of Steve O'Brien, the genial Jackson and business-like Mr. Freedman, were constantly in evidence, in their efforts to see that everyone was well treated and enjoying themselves.

Altogether the opening of the Savoy was a marked success, and augers well for the success and permanency of the house under the present able management.

At the Orpheum the production of Berard's well known three act comedy, "Betsy" was enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience whose tendencies are marked by a decided leaning towards sour dough, and who was loyal to that tendency, notwithstanding the counter attractions of the Third street house.

Miss Ida Howell, the entertaining songstress who has been such a drawing card for the house, is also an actress of no mean ability whose work is highly appreciated in that direction as well as in that of a specialist.

The cast of characters for the production of "Betsy" is a strong one, so strong that it needs no description or comment. The same artists, with the exception of Blossom, who have graced the Orpheum boards for some time past are in it, and their names as they appear on the program have a sufficient drawing power to fill the house and keep the business of the house in its usual prosperous condition.

Biddy Doyle's friends were a little surprised to see him sitting on his high stool last evening at the Orpheum door as usual, in view of the fact that he had been reported as having left. He says it is not so.

The report that the Orpheum is to be transformed into an office building is strenuously denied by Ben Levy, who says it will be closed for a couple of weeks at the expiration of the present lease, after which it will be opened by a new company.

Contraband Booze Galore.

Yesterday, through some machination known only to himself Sergeant J. J.

Wilson succeeded in locating 60 cases of smuggled whisky in a cabin occupied by Wm. H. Robertson on the side-hill near Fifth street. The stuff was packed in various cases labeled "eggs," "tomatoes," etc., and had been shipped in by the upper Yukon where it had passed inspection of the customs officers undetected and unsuspected. As there is over 300 gallons of the liquor, the amount saved by the smuggler was upwards of $600, as the import tax even on whisky coming from other parts of Canada is $2 per gallon; but if shipped from the United States the amount saved to the shipper and lost to the government by the process of smuggling would be much greater.

Robertson was placed under arrest and taken to the barracks. The whisky was also taken possession of by the officers and removed to other quarters for safe keeping. It will later be sold as contraband goods. Robertson's friends were endeavoring to secure his release yesterday evening, but their efforts were unavailing. He was formerly one of the proprietors of the Grotto, now the Rochester Bar. It is certain that he had one or more partners in the smuggling business, but their names have not yet been revealed.

Robertson is still in jail in default of $10,000 bond.

Steamboat News.

The steamer Sybil arrived today at 11:15 with Capt. Cox on the bridge. Purser Langley reports a voyage from Whitehorse without any incident to mar the journey down stream. The boat was tied up at intervals to allow the arrival of the boat to be at the time prearranged—11 o'clock this morning. The boat made a very pretty landing, the crew being on the quiver and doing their utmost to make the journey of the vice-regal party which they carried one of pleasure and without mishap. It is said by those connected with the boat that Lord and Lady Minto are easily pleased and act like ordinary mortals, without demanding an inordinate amount of attention. Following is the vice-regal party: Lord Minto, Lady Minto, Capt. Graham, M. Guise, A. F. Sladen, Sergeant F. Rogers, Major Woods, Major Primrose; attendants—Miss Dwyer, Messrs. Pitt, Evans, Duncan, Anderson, and Stevens; Sergeant Jones and a constabulary of six members of the N. W. M. P.

The steamer Zealandian sailed for Whitehorse at 11:37 last night with a fair passenger list, that is in reference to the number of people carried. The steamer Anglian sailed this afternoon. Agent Miles of the K. C. Co., has received word from R. W. Calderhead on the steamer Flora en route to the head of navigation on the Stewart, that the wind storm which raised such a turmoil in Dawson last Saturday had done considerable damage along the river and had made it interesting for the Flora for a short time. She is now going up stream slowly, but with everybody happy, as no evil result ensued.

The wires are still down at upper river points and the movements of steamers above is only surmised.

The C. D. Co. expects the Columbian in today.

The steamer Ora is due from above, while all the big companies are looking for boats from the lower river at any hour.

The Coming Glove Contest.

The interest which was at first manifested in the coming glove contest between Smith and Slavin is by no means waning as time passes and the time when the men will face each other in the ring draws near. A little less than two weeks remains before the contest is to take place, and both men are working hard, and getting themselves into splendid condition.

Slavin is very reticent about the work he is doing, but it is known that he is letting slip no opportunity of bettering his condition.

Smith is working hard under the able direction of Trainer Billy Carroll, who has him up and on the road soon after 6 a. m., and between his walking, rowing, rope skipping and boxing, he is kept very busy.

Arrangements are being made to secure a room large enough to accommodate the crowd which is sure to be on hand to see the bout, and it is believed by the managers that neither of the theaters have a sufficient seating capacity to answer the purpose.

EARL OF MINTO ARRIVES.

can be properly comprehended, and we are pleased that your excellency and Lady Minto have undertaken this long journey for the purpose of becoming better acquainted with the conditions of the Yukon territory.

Gold mining is not the only resource of this country; deposits of coal, copper and other minerals have been found, and we feel confident that quartz mining will yet become an important industry in this territory.

Poling boats have already given way to steamboats, dog teams to horses, while our gardens now produce vegetables and flowers which were at one time almost a priceless luxury in the Yukon.

You have noticed our magnificent waterway and the scenic beauties of our country.

The development of this country has but commenced, and it will continue to support an ever increasing population.

The enforcement of order by the Northwest mounted police has been excellent and we congratulate your excellency upon their efficiency and excellence.

To Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria the people express their loyalty, and devotion, and to your excellency and Lady Minto they gladly express their appreciation of this visit.

The parade of floats representing largely the wealth and industries of the territory was reviewed from the stand as it passed.

The fire department came first, being led by the chemical engine, upon which was set up the pole of the little black cub, who perched and sprawled on the bar at the top. After this came the hook and ladder truck, followed by the hose wagon, with the steamer bringing up the rear.

The Ladue Lumber Co. was represented by a wagon bearing an appropriate load of timbers.

The A. C. Co.'s display was appropriate and unique. It consisted of a small log cabin upon which were hung pelts, and about the base were displayed sacks of flour and other commodities formerly used as articles of barter. The cabin bore the date of 1868, and illustrated the beginning of the present great commercial house.

The Yukon Iron Works was well represented by a large float bearing a large variety of mechanical appliances.

Two trucks loaded with freight bore the name of Lancaster & Calderhead, and the Ames Mercantile Co. had a very pretty and tasteful display of rugs and draperies.

The Yukon saw mill sent a four-horse load of heavy sawed timbers, and McLennan & McFeeley displayed some of their wares on a buggy.

The A. E. Co. had a very large and handsome float representing a car of state filled with little girls, who sang as they went. On the side was the single word "Greeting."

The Dawson Transfer and Storage Co. sent a small steam engine and portable wood saw; and McLennan & McFeeley were represented a second time by a large boiler drawn by four horses, and followed by a very large pack mule.

At 4 p. m. the party left the stand and were driven over the city. At 9 o'clock this evening the governor general will hold a reception at the residence of Major Woods for the gentlemen of the city who care to call.

Corral Your Horses.

After today all horses found running at large within the city limits, if an unincorporated town can be said to have limits, will be taken up and impounded at the expense of the owner. The same course will be pursued with horses as with dogs. When impounded they can be redeemed on payment of a stipulated sum not yet announced, and if not redeemed within a certain time will be sold at public auction.

Without a Country.

New York, July 4.—Concerning the present social status of William Waldorf Astor, in England, the London correspondent of the World cables that it is frankly admitted at Cliveden, Mr. Astor's villa on the Thames, that he will not tenant it this autumn, as has been his custom, but will go over to the continent for a year at least. His magazine property, the Pall Mall Gazette, is in the market, too, and the brokers say it can be had at a very reasonable figure, much less than the outlay already made upon it.

If Mr. Astor quits England for good, many say he must, he will be in a queer position. Though an American by birth, he has foresworn his allegiance, and is now a naturalized British subject. If he leaves England he will practically be a man without a country.

Requiescat in Pace.

When it was announced in the Nugget yesterday evening that, instead of accepting the mandate of the police magistrate that she pay the sum of $50 and costs as a penalty for having been drunk, riotous and disorderly on the streets Saturday night, Gussie Lamore would insist on having the case reopened and evidence heard, there was wailing, gnashing of teeth and trembling of knees on the part of more than one prospective witness, any one of whom would willingly pay the fine of "Swift's relic" rather than be called as a witness in the case. Gussie was seen and long spels were made in an effort to persuade her to accept the decree of the court as made and thus allow the case to be relegated to the shades of obscurity. Reason at length prevailed and she consented to allow the matter to pass.

As for Gussie, it is hinted that in view of her past record, she is now on what might be termed "probation," and that one more indulgence in a lark will result in her being ordered out of the country.
