40.000 ACRES OF LEASEHOLD TENED TO May. Oats finished unchanged to 1-2 cent higher, and provisions ranging from 12 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Houses with seaboard connections were conspicuous in the purchasing, whereas voig selfers proved scarce, the bulk of the offerings coming from pit longs who had week-end profits to realize. The country sold almost no corn. Oats hardened in response to continued demand for export interests.

Owing to recent sharp advances the provision market encountered a decided lull. For the most part, however, quotations were sustained by the comparative firmness of prices on hogs.
