THE GUARDIAN

BY FREDERICK ORIN BARTLETT

CHAPTER XIV.

Two in a Garret.

The next day Bella found herself installed on the top floor of the boarding-house in a room next Gene's. It wasn't much of a room, but there was a roof to keep off the rain and a bed to sleep in, and these, after all, are the essentials. Her household goods she had brought over in a suitcase. They consisted solely of a very limited wardrobe. With a thrift based upon an early resolution never to be forced into a position of dependence upon any male, she had saved out of her earnings whatever she had not been obliged to contribute to her sister's household, instead of spending the surplus upon either clothes or entertainment. The result had been a lonely life which had further strengthened her conviction, but it gave her the opportunity of taking her present independent stand.

Bella had no intention of loading on here indefinitely. She had two distinct ideas in accepting Gene's suggestion—one was to be near enough to watch over him until he was well established on his feet, and the other was to rest for a week. She had never been able to shake off the feeling which had come over her that first night she met him—that she was in some way his responsibility for this big, overgrown boy. He was her charge. She knew the world and he didn't, and because he had come to her clean and unspoiled she must keep him so. She didn't put this into words. It was not a deliberate, well-formed plan on her part, but it was a feeling strong enough to govern her acts. It sprang, as did her aggressive attitude towards all the other men she had ever met, from a mother instinct that was strangely pure and vital.

Her desire for a vacation of a week was sufficiently novel to have set her to thinking, if ever she had been in the habit of thinking about herself. This desire had come to her while she was sitting in the park by the side of Gene. There was something in the pressure of his strong arm that had suddenly made her wish to play the stay-at-home for a few days. She had been tired all her life. She had taken it for granted that being tired was one of the necessary burdens of her sex. She had never resented it nor disputed it, but that evening she had made her wonder how it would feel not to go to work some morning. He had made her curious as to how it would feel to be half cared for just for a little while. She would pay for her own room, but she would enjoy the luxury of allowing him to contribute towards the meals. She could get her breakfast for him, and wait for him at night. It is doubtful if she would have gone even this far had he not really owed her the money. This permitted her to play the dependent without actually being so. Any moment she did not like the experiment she could give it up.

But the significant point remained that no other man had ever had her such an unusual desire. However much she might compromise herself, however tight she closed her eyes to the naked truth, enough of it leaked through to make her somewhat self-conscious. She found herself unusually happy. Her thoughts were centring more and more around this man. She took the episode in the park for what it was worth. That Gene should want to put his arm about her didn't mean much—men were all that way—but that she had been willing to allow it meant a good deal. It was a queer, too, that she didn't mind losing her job, and that she could so easily leave her sister's

Twitching of the Nerves

A Distressing Symptom of Nervous Exhaustion Cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. John McKellar.

What sympathy you feel for anyone whose nerves twitch and jerk, and what resolves you make to never allow your nervous system to become exhausted, until paralysis of some form claims you as a victim.

The only way is to watch the warning symptoms, such as sleeplessness, headache, indigestion, tired feelings and irritability. By the prompt use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can feed the feeble, wasted nerves back to health and vigor, restore the vitality of the body, and prevent serious disease.

Mrs. John McKellar, 11 Barton street east, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—

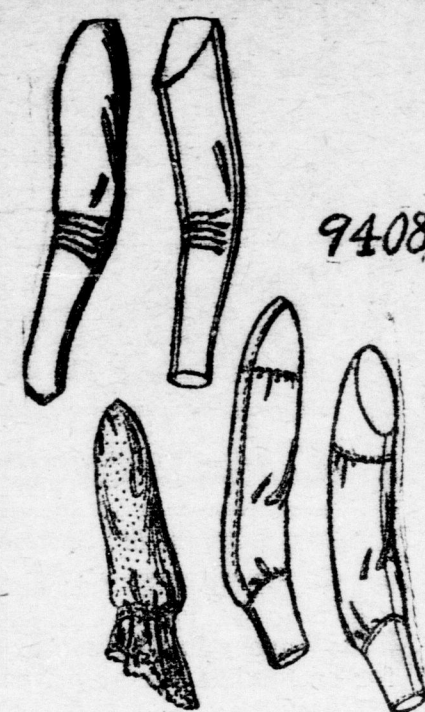

"I was injured some years ago, and that left me with a broken-down nervous system. I could not sleep, suffered from twitching of the nerves and disagreeable nervous sensations.

"I then began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that I never used any medicine that did me so much good; in fact, I am entirely cured of my old trouble. The Nerve Food not only strengthened the nerves, but also built up my system in every way."

Under date of Aug. 29, 1912, Mrs. McKellar writes, confirming her cure, and states that she has had inquiries from many people who had heard of the great benefits she obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 8 for $2.50. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

TWO-HEADED CALF

BORN AT INGERSOLL

Freak Died in a Short Time—

A Big Addition to the Postoffice.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingessoll, Jan. 13.—A cow belonging to Mr. Anson Hughes, a Berchem farmer, residing near Zenda, gave birth to a double-headed calf on Saturday. The calf was of unusual interest because of the fact that each head was perfect in the opinion of the veterinarian who was in attendance. The second head protruded from the side of the shoulder. The calf died at the time of birth, otherwise an attempt to rear it would doubtless have been made.

Enlarge Postoffice.

An agitation which was inaugurated by the board of trade about three years ago may result in much-needed improvements being made shortly to the postoffice.

It has been felt for some time that the accommodation for the public was altogether too limited, and the board of trade took up the matter making representation to Ottawa, which culminated in plans being forwarded and the matter discussed officially. However, no definite understanding was arrived at, and the matter was left in abeyance.

Since that time the conditions have been more urgent, and new plans have been sent here, which it is believed will have approved and the proposed work soon commenced. It is proposed to extend the building southward twelve feet and thereby furnish greater accommodation both for the postoffice staff and the public.

Modern Equipment.

Fifty new lock boxes will be included, and it is probable that up-to-date boxes will be provided throughout the building. The matter is one of deep interest both to the postoffice staff and the public generally. The postoffice returns show a big increase each year, and additional accommodation is absolutely necessary.

An Ingessoll boy who has won an important promotion is A. J. (Fred) Norworthy, son of Mr. J. C. Norworthy, the Canadian Tobacco Company. He has been appointed to a responsible position with the firm as their representative in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Norworthy has numerous friends in Ingessoll who will be pleased to hear of his promotion.

"NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS"

Proved of Great Value to Me

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Armstrong, Canoe, N.S.:—

"It is with pleasure I write to inform you that your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is such a success as can only come to an honest remedy, compounded according to an exceptionally good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. STRONGLY IN FAVOR OF PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

London Vegetable Growers Met on Saturday.

A well-attended meeting of the London Branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association was held in the county buildings on Saturday afternoon, Mr. W. G. Bycroft presiding.

Mr. Bycroft spoke strongly in favor of the publicity campaign, and made a motion that two representatives be sent to the publicity meeting on the 14th of January at 2 p.m. to look after the vegetable growers' interests. Mr. J. J. Davies and President Bycroft were chosen. The vegetable growers are taking an active interest in the movement, and believe it will be of great benefit to the county.

Mr. J. Sharnan spoke on the apple question, and declared that something should be done to help the growers dispose of their fruit. He dwelt on the importance of the grower storing his apples under the best conditions. Too many were careless in this respect. He was of the opinion that fruit growing was one of the best-paying lines in Canada at present, and offered unlimited opportunities.

Mr. J. Poad addressed the meeting on vegetable growing. He was of the opinion that the grower should use the highest scientific methods to produce the best crop. He received a good hearing.

Mr. J. J. Davies spoke on celery culture. In order to produce the maximum quantity and quality of the vegetable the bed should be well supplied with fertilizers. It was almost impossible, he said, to over-supply the crop with plant food and water. He emphasized the importance of spraying for blight, both early and late. Operations, however, should be conducted right through the season to properly control this fungus disease.

A feature of the vegetable growers' meeting are the competitions for the best selections of vegetables. Mr. W. Saunders took first and Mr. Bycroft second in the celery competition at Saturday's meeting.

25 CENT "DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF—GROWS HAIR

Don't Pay 50 Cents For Worthless Hair Tonics—Use Old Reliable, Harmless "Danderine"—Get Results.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Island pending an appeal from an order of deportation. Despite reports that James would be sent to Ellis Island, he was not detained longer than was necessary to make an affidavit that he was born in this country and still retained his citizenship, although he had lived in Paris for the past six years.
