

The Toronto World.

NO. 6 TORONTO STREET, TORONTO. A One Cent Morning Paper.

Citizens Will Assert Their Rights. The people who won the victory last Saturday are tired of the Sunday car discussion.

The World is advocating the cause of law-abiding, peaceable citizens and let the controversy pass. It is advocating the cause of people who will quietly acquiesce in the decision of the majority, whatever that decision may be.

Let us consider again what the decision of the majority last Saturday really was. The majority did not vote that Toronto should not have street car accommodation on Sunday, but that the Toronto Railway should not furnish that accommodation.

The law of the land is that people have the right to get about on Sunday by any means they wish. We take it for granted that there is one law for all in the Province of Ontario. If not, there ought to be one such law, and one such law will be the people's right to get about on Sunday by any means they wish.

As soon as a majority of the people say there shall be no means of getting about in Toronto on Sunday then we shall cease fighting and quietly submit. As yet they have said no such thing. There are thousands of people getting about by means of horses and carriages every Sunday in Toronto.

Even President Carnot of France, who has enjoyed every health of late, has received columns of the actual facts of the way their Presidents within the past three years, two out of the six dying in office. The death of Andrew Johnson of Southern sentiment coming into office.

Reference to the bus line which has been proposed to meet the wants of 100,000 citizens of Toronto, Robert Aude, of course, has something to say. He did not say that party that should be taught a severe lesson.

There are men willing to organize the service, provided the citizens who want it will express their sympathy and encouragement. The way to do that is to hold a meeting. Scores of citizens called at a meeting of the office yesterday and expressed their willingness to contribute to a fund to have the legal rights of the people determined.

An association to look after this matter should be formed at once. It is a case where funds will be required for legal purposes, and a membership fee of one dollar is a good suggestion to start out with. In another column will be found a coupon, which all intending members of the association are requested to sign and send to the World office.

MARRIED HER OWN BROTHER

HORRIBLE DISCOVERY MADE BY A BLATFORD WOMAN.

Fell in Love With Her Brother Whom She Had Not Seen Since Childhood—And He Had Served in the Army Under an Assumed Name—Identified by an Uncle From a Portrait.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 30.—Violet Buckingham, a young woman of 21 years of age, was born in Ireland, and some years ago came to Canada and located permanently in London, Ontario, where she made her home with friends.

A little more than 18 months ago she was introduced to a young man named Edward Vezy, who had shortly before arrived in London from New Zealand, and who had been a soldier in the Second Canadian Fusiliers, stationed at Seconderland.

The friendship ripened into a courtship and the young man pressed the girl to marry him. The marriage took place in London in the usual way.

After residing there for some time they removed to Brantford, where Vezy got employment with Messrs. A. G. Montgomery & Co.

After coming to reside in Brantford for some time the young woman sent a photograph of her husband to an uncle, who is superintendent of one of the largest public charities in the city of Dublin.

The picture so strikingly resembled the gentleman's nephew and Violet's brother, whom she had not seen since she was 9 years of age, that a feeling of horror struck her. Being in an influential position in Ireland he had difficulty in securing the Government's consent to locate the retired or time-expired soldier, whose name was Leopold Buckingham, who was about 25 years of age.

Vezy's real name was John Buckingham, but when he enlisted in the army he adopted the other name in order to hide his identity from his friends, and he was estranged at his enlistment.

The woman cried with grief. The couple had not lived very happily together. Vezy being of a very passionate nature. The young woman, who is almost 20 years of age, has stated to her neighbors that she did not have the most extraordinary suspicions that all was not right, but never did she dream for a moment of her awful position.

THE NEW DRILL SHED

The Structure To Be Ready for Occupation Before Christmas.

A World reporter yesterday paid a visit to the new Drill Shed, on which the contractor, Col. Stewart, has been working for the last 18 months, under the able supervision of the architect, Mr. Windeyer, 18 Toronto-street.

The building had at one time over 200 men working on it, but there are now remaining only about 100. The contractor expects to finish his work about the first of December, or not later than Christmas.

From the outside the structure presents a rather bleak and unattractive appearance, and its huge square bulk has an air of vastness which is not deceptive.

The building has at one time over 200 men working on it, but there are now remaining only about 100. The contractor expects to finish his work about the first of December, or not later than Christmas.

THEY RETURNED THANKS

Twenty-six People Dejected at the Defeat of Sunday.

It was a sparse audience indeed that assembled in the Carlton-street Reformed Presbyterian Church last night to give thanks for the defeat of Sunday street cars.

After singing the 100th Psalm by way of thanksgiving the pastor read a portion of Nehemiah and offered up thanks that this city was not as others are. He then called upon Elder Gould.

The speaker, who is an old soldier, detailed the many thanksgivings he had attended, and told how, when he was in the army, victory was always prayed for.
