Our Woods and Forests.

(From the Colonist.) Canada is celebrated for the production of cereals. Its wheat especially is much sought a ter by the people of other countries. Under the facilities afforded by the operation of the Reciprocity Treaty, and owing to the un-usual demand in Europe, our farmers are reaping a tich reward for their labour. We frosted with age they now live in comfort, surrounded by their rising progeny. The children of the present generation have an tors. The heary sire who accompanies his children to the Village Church, in a carriage neat and fastidiously elegant, is none other than the venerable pioneer of the forest. He is the man who walked his twenty miles with his bag of flour on his back, received in exchange for a modicum of wheat—the first fruits of his industry. first fruits of his industry. In some | The chairman then read the following re district land is of fittle value, save for the timber only. Rapid fortunes have been made in the lumber trade: but more still remains to be done. Fortune, though sometimes fielde, smiles upon the diligent, and showersher bounties upon the willing. The profits and gains of the company arise their trade and the free trade of the port of the Directors:

The directors have given full consideration to the question of declaring half yearly dividends, as required by the charter. The profits and gains of the company arise chiefly from two sources. The first, and by the charter of the port of the Directors: lumbering trade may fluctuate—adversity for a time may damp the struggles of the enterprising—but eventually the cloud blows cost thereof, and the expense of holding and over and all resume their wonted employment. The great secret of supply and demand governs the agricultural and commercial world. A year of depression is always folloyed by years of prosperity. The war in Europe has disappointed manufacturers and exporters of fumber and timber of all sorts. At first an impression prevailed that the war would close the Baltic ports and increase the demand for Canadian timber. Unfortunately the impression was not said ground the very opposite has been in the result, and the very opposite has been the result.

Many of our manufacturers, deceived by the difficulty to make out an exact yearly accidence. Many of our manufacturers, deceived by the difficulty to make out an exact yearly actions the spring prospects, have miscalculated and find themselves suffering in consequence—

It was not at the control of the transactions of the company. It has not hitherto been at-Are nave arreany experienced neavy losses.

Aerohants of Quebec and of Ottawa have allow victims to the unexpected change.—

The war, instead of increasing the demand for our timber has had a contrary effect. The reason is plain. Ships well paid for transporting stores from France, England, and other-European countries, to the seat of war, were analysed to return with carones of the proprietors, to endeavour to fix on some transporting stores from France, England, and other-European countries, to the seat of war, were enabled to return with cargoes of Baltic timber at freights unusually low; and not only that, but it is further to be remembered, that our imports during the past year were not at all large—few vessels landed at Quebec—so that as a sequence there were not many return cargoes. In the meantime, timber intended for exportation was allowed to lie unexported. There was no sufficient demand for it in the home market. Supplies if anything, increased, and the result has been a general depression in the business. The market is, comparatively speaking, stagnant. We are not, therefore surprised to learn that the quantity now wintered at The market is, comparatively speaking, stagnant. We are not therefore surprised to learn that the quantity now wintered at Quebeo is very great. Those who have large pecuniary sources to fall back upon, may weather the tempest; but we fear there Parliament for further powers, and for this purpose havegiven notice, in order to get an act passed in the ensuing session. From a statement of timber. A demand for timber is springing up in the United States. Ready purchasers are found there, and their number is steadily infound there, and their number is steadily increasing. Such a trade is under existing circumstances very consolatory. Upon reference to Charlton's review of the timber market, we find that the demand from the United States "has increased 200 per sent United States "has increased 200 per sent in five years." "Chicago," he says, "has become almost in a day the greatest market for lumber in the world." It is gratifying to learn these savory facts. We, in the west, have especial reasons to be pleased. There is now a market almost at our very doors. Timber, when sawed into lumber, may be delivered within a few miles of the place of growth. It is consumed in the United States, and the consumption cannot retrograde. The wider the market, the better for manufacturers generally—so long as there is enough for home use and to spare. A new and ad-ditional demand is therefore welcome. With increased demand there will be increased production; capital will be more freely expended, and labor more universally encour said, of capital repaid?

The Chairman said, although it might be considered capital it was not so in reality, a

The Wyandot Corn.

This truly singular production was first in-troduced to the notice of the public in 1823, by Mr. J. R. Thomas of Waverly, Illinois, who received nine grains from the Wyandot Indians through a California emigrant, which he planted in a sandy soil, and the product was fifty-eight full grown ears. In rate of dividend now declared, would, as a 1854 there were raised from twenty-five matter of course be continued. When the grains planted on the 10th of May, one hundred and thirty-two ears, and from one-fourth of an acre, thirty-two bushels and vided, and this now entered into the divithree pecks of shelled corn. It only received the common cultivation given to other kinds of corn.

The resolution having been carried,
On the motion of Mr. Tite, a vote of ceived the common cultivation given to other kinds of corn.

The corn is represented to possess these thanks was given to the chairman andd tors, and the meeting then seperated.

Diamed in each hill; more than one is useless. Sec ud, each grain yields from three to eight full grown stalks, equal in length and strength, being from nine to twelve feet high, proceeding direct y from the grain.—

Third, each stalk bears from two to four ears with beat of drum, a reward of twenty-five. in a large and beautiful pearl white corn, the louis to whoever would bring it to him. The meal of which is equal in appearance to crier, according to direction, took care to flour manufactured from wheat. Each hill mention all the titles and academic honors mention all the titles and academic honors will yield from eight to twenty ears. From the planted, it will produce double the quantity of seed planted, it will produce and seed them a acre. Allowing each grain to produce but six ears, (and my yield for the present year, 1855, will average ten ears to the hill,) and the produce of 2,500 hills, is 15,000 ears, the produce of 2,300 hills, is 10,000 ears, and, allowing 120 ears to the bushel of corn, the result will be 125 bushels per acre. By actual measurement it has been conclusively proved that three of the average, sized ears of the Wyandot corn, will make one ears of the wyanuot corn, will make one quart, or ninety-six ears to the bushel, say one hundred ears, and the result is changed from 125 to 150 bushels per acre, the latter being nearest correct."—American paper.

reaping a tich reward for their labour. We are glad to see it. The prosperity of the farmer is the prosperity of Canada. No class of society has done more for the improvement of this Province than these faithful Knights of the Plough. At one time—and that not long since—they as a class were poor, needy and struggling. This was natural in a new conntry populated chiefly by the poorser classes from Europe, in search of a better home. Honest industry and strict fungality have rendered their possessors the proud lords of the cultivated soil. It is a pleasing duty to chronicle such success.—The needy labour has become the afilinent farmer. Thousands of respected and wealthy farmers now filling responsible offices of civic trust, entered this Province with no other property than an axe—with no other intention than to dwell. Ripe in years and frosted with age they now live in confort, surrounted by their rising progeny. The to be preferred. Many recommend sowing them as early as the 20th of June, but this year we think later sowing will do as well if not better. The best turnips are those that grow rapidly from the commencement, if back ward weather occurs in the earlier stages of their growth, its influence seems to mark the root for life. A rich and mellow soil is required for turnips, they delight in deep, sandy moulds, and new ground, grass-swards or clover leys are well suited to their production. Liberally manured and careully and cleanly cultivated, such soils will produce heavy crops. From eight hundred to one thousand bushels per acre have often been raised in tavourable seasons.—Rural New Yorker.

LEONARD, SCOTT & Co., NEW YORK,

CONTINUE to re-publish the following British Periodicals, viz:

The London Quarterly Review (Conservative.)

The present critical state of European affairs will render these publications unusually interesting during the year 1855. They will occupy a middle ground between the hastily-written news items, crade speculations, and flying rumours of the daily Journal, and the ponderous Tomb of the fature historian, written after the living and excitement of the great political event shall have passed away. It is to these Periodicals that readers must look for the only really intelligible and reliable history of current events, and as such, in addition to their will-established literary, scientific, and theological character, we literary, scientific, and theological character, we urge them upon the consideration of the reading public.
