Catholic Movement in England.

The annual pilgrimage to Canterbury, under the auspices of the Guild of Our Lady of Ransom: took place on July 7. Before starting the Ransomers attended Mass at 8.15 in the Church of St. Ethol-dreia, Ely place, London. The service at Canterbury was delivered by the Rev Bernard Vaughan, 8.

Russian Intolerance.

Russian Intolerance.

A roport has reached Rome that the Russian Government has resolved to act with rigour against the Poles for the demeanour of their Press during the coronation feativities. Another motive given as the enthusiastic reception accorded to Mgr. Agliardi on his return journey from Russia. Several promunent publishers and journalists are said to have been arrested. There scenas to be some truth in the rumour, but confidence is felt at the Vatican that Russia will be induced to desist from all harsh and arbitrary measures, as during the Papal ropressetatives's visit the Government of St. Petersburg showed itself amenable to courteous porsussions.

M. Felix Faure and Jeanne d'Arc.

The President of the Republic was placed in somewhat of a dilemma when he was asked to preside at the "inauguration" (Anglice "unveiling") of the statue of Jeanne d'Arromovement, which is popular, and to have consented must necessarily have exposed him to the taunts and jeers of the Radicals who forsook the ship when they found that the Catholics were steering it and there was no chance of getting the rudder out of their hands. M. Felix Faure has come to the courageous decision that will go to riske to which he will be exposed from the decidely "clerical" company there and which he will hardly be able to avoid. M. Faure has the sagacity to perceive that he scheen the more politic course. The President of the Republic was

The Desire to Leave a Name Behind Us.

Us.

We have an involuntary reverence for all witnesses of history, be they animate or inanimate, men, animals, or stones. The desire to leave a work behind is in every man, and manchild, from the strong leader who plants his fame in a nation's glory, and teach unborn generations to know him, to the boy who carves his initials upon his desk at school. Few women have it. Perhaps the wish to be remembered is what fills that on counce or so of matter by which modern statisticians assert that the average man's brain is heavier than the average woman's. The wish in ourselves makes us respect the satisfaction of it which the few obtain. Probably few men' are not secretly longed to see their names set up for ages, like the 'Paulus V Borgheisus' over the middle of the portion of St. Peter's, high above the entrance to the most at monuvent of human hands in existence. Modesty commands the respect of many, but it is open success that appeals to almost all mankind. But Pasquin laughed:

"The corner is St. Peter's, but the whole front Pault's and the property, the house is but for Paul."

Lee XIII. and Spain.

The Holy Father's sympathy with Spain is profound, and the letter lately addressed by him to the Queen-Regent is a touching proof of it. That Catholic country has not the good luck it would soom to deserve, and its greatest cross for the moment is the trouble given it by Cuba. Submission to legitimate and lawfully-constituted authority is a principle the Holy Father could not possibly waver upon, and he has shown his willingness to make considerable sacrifice in order to proclaim the fact publicly.

The June Consistory.

The June Cousistory,

A Rome telegram describing the public consistory on June 25 for the purpose of conferring the cardual's hat upon the Archbishops of Lemburg, Salzburg, Valladolid, and Bourges, and upon the Bishops of Autuu and Urgel says the ceremony took place in the Royal IIall at half-past nine. These prolates went to the Sistine Chapel, where they took oath according to the Apostolic Constitution. When, the Pope, who wore the pluvial and the papal tiara, was borne through the Ducal Hall on the Sodia Gestatoria he was received with loud cheers by those present. Having reached the Royal Hall, His Holinees mounted the throne and conferred the hats upon the cardinals after each had kissed his foot and hand. During the coronary the Consistorial Advocator of the Bestiteation and Canoni Arc, and the Pope ruplied, secording to the prescribed formula, "Ad Sacrum Rituum Congregationem quae videat et referet." His Holinees the resumed his seat on the Sedia Gestatoria, and surrounded by the Papal College and members of the Papal Court retired to his private apartments. His Holinees appeared in exceller the halth, and in no way fatigued by the ceremony.

The Holy Pillar of St. Peter's.

In the same small chapel stands a strangely wrought marble column in closed in an iron cage. The Romans now call it the Colomna Santa (the holy pillar), and it is said to be the holy pillar), and it is said to be the one against which Christ leaned when teaching in the temple at Jerusalem. A great modern authority believes it to be of Roman workmanship, and of the third century; but those who have lived in the East will see much that is Oriental in the fantastic, ornamented carving. It matters lattle. In actual In the same small chapel stands is Oriental in the fantastic, ornamented carving. It matters little. In actual fact, whatever be its origin, this is the column known in the middle ages as the "Colomna degli Spiritati," or column of those possessed by evil spirits, and it was customary to bind to it such unlucky individuals as fell under suspicion of "possession."
