DISTRESS IN LANCASHIRE .- As the pressure of distress increases through the stoppage of more mills, the working classes from the country villages and towns flock to Manchester and the larger centres of industry in great numbers to ask alms in the streets, and beg from door to door. Great numbers go through the towns in groups singing such songs as they know, or more commonly singing sacred music, and pick up a good deal of money. Many of these people, it is said, get money from private funds subscribel in their own neighborhood, and it has been suggested that some means should be devised of preventing them from adopting this vagabond life as much as possible. One firm in the country, lately employing 2,000 people, now gives them three day's wages per week, though not employing them. To prevent their hands going about begging in other towns they have issued an order that their workpeople shall muster at the mills every day at a certain hour, and be kept there a short time to clean the machinery. This system will probably have to be adopted more generally.

CONTICTS AT LARGE. - In the year 1861 and last quarter of 1860, 1,672 male convicts were released on licence in England, and:301 female convicts in 1861, In the 82 years from October, 1861, 10,507 male convicts and 962 female convicts have been released under orders of licence. 1,124 of the men and 73 of the women have since been returned to convict prisons under sentence of penal servitude or transportation and 849 of the men and 68 of the women have had their licence revoked for lighter offences, making a total of 1,973 men and 141 women who have forfeited their licence. Of the men, however, only 535, or 5 per cent., forfeited their licence for the more serious crimes, and 10 per cent. of the woman; the rest were for the lighter offences of larceny, theft, vagrancy, assault, and various misdemeanours.

ENCESSIVE PUNISHMENT. - The daily papers comment indiguantly on the following case:—A little boy named Henry Edwards threw, by accident, his ball over a hedge into a wheat-field at Hemel Hempstead. He entered the field to pick it up, when he was apprehended by one of the rural police, who brought him up before the county magistrates, Sir Astley Paston Cooper, of Gadisbridge Park, the Rev. John Batt Bingham, Vicar of Groat Geddesden, in Hertfordshire (and also Rector of St. Martin, Ludgate, in the City of London), and Mr. R. Eden. The boy pleaded guilty, and the bench assessed the damage done to the wheat at 15s 6d, which the boy's parents who were respectable labouring people, were unable to may; and, in default, the poor boy, who had never before been accused of any misdemeanour, was sentenced to a fortnight's imprisonment, and two years confinement in a reformatory !

Lord Palmerston, in a speech at Melbourne, referred to the Trent affair; which, he said, was settled in a manner consistent with the dignity of both England and America; there was, consequently, no tri umple on either side. The only triumph was that of truth and justice, which each side was equally interested in maintaining.
