

'I am about to describe an establishment which cost the proprietors one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in its construction, and upon which they pay the Government of Canada a tax of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars a-year for permission to work it. It is the distillery of Mesars, Gooderham & Worts, at Toronto, Canada West.—ED. CANADIAN ILLUSTRATED NEWS.

* Certainly the world in its early stages never saw, as the New World in this age had not before seen, any distillery more perfect, and but few, if any, equal in all respects to that of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto.'—latt.

HAMILTON ACENCY

JOHN PARK begs to call the attention of the trude to the Whiskies manufactured at the above establishment, which for strength, purity, and flavor are unequalled by anything made in this country. They are well known and in great demand throughout the whole of Canada, being shipped in large quantites to Liverpool, and Lon-don, England, where they are much approved.

Grocers, Wine Merchants and Dealers generally, should lose no time in giving them a trial. There are many instances of storckeepers doubling their sale in a very short time by introducing these celebrated whiskies.

The trade can only be supplied through me at the depot, where all orders will be promptly attended to.

The celibrity of the Genuine Singer Machines, and the reputation which they have acquired over all others, for superiority, has led certain manufacturors of Sewing Machines, in Canada, to make a begus imilation of the Singer No. 2 Machines, and which are palmed off upon the public for Singer Machines, but in value, when compared with the Genuine Singer Imperial, No. 2 Machines, stand in about the same position as begus coin does to genuine gold.

Look out for imposters, and dealers in bogus machines, who will not only tell you the begus are quite epual to the Genuine, but superior, and that it is your duty to buy Home Manufacturers. But if you want a Machine that will prove truly reliable, and really worth what you pay for it, buy the Genuine Singer, and you will not be disappointed.

How it Happens.—One fruitful source of discontent and one great bar of enjoyment in this world, is the practice of comparing one's life with the life of others; utterly ignoring the fact that every person has an inner as well as an outer life; or in the old fashioned words of the Bible, 'that every heart knoweth its own bitterness.' How often is the remark made by superficial observers. 'How happy such and such persons must be! if I were only they! when, ten to one, these very persons, oblivious of their wealth and position, are weary and heart-sore with the din and battle of life. The Statue of Franklin.—A writer in the Atlantic Monthly srys;—'Richard Greenough once told me, that in studying for the statue of Franklin he found that the left side of the great man's face was philosophic and reflective, and the right side funny and smiling. If you will go and look at the bronze statue, you will find he has repeated this observation there for posterity. The eastern profile is the portrait of the statesman Franklin, the western of poor Richard.'

How IT HAPPENS.—One fruitful source of

RUSTIC POLITENESS.—The father of the press nt Lord Abington, who was remarkable for his stateliness of manners, one day riding, through a village in the vicinity of Oxford, met a lad dragging a calf along the road, who, when his lordship came up, made a stop and stared him full in the face. His lordship asked the boy if he knew him. He replied 'Yes.' 'What is my name?' said his lordship.— Why, Abington,' replied the lad. 'Then why don't you take off your hat?' 'So I will, zur,' said the boy, 'if ye'll hold the calf.' RUSTIC POLITENESS.—The father of the man Franklin, the western of poor Richard.

TRUE POLITNESS.—As to politeness, many have attempted definitions of it. I believe it is best known by description, definition not being able to comprise it. I would, however, venture to call it 'benevolence in trifles,' or the preference of others to ourselves in little, daily, hourly occurrences in the commerce of life. It is a perpetual attention to the little wants of those with whom we are, by which attention we either prevent or remove them. Bowing, ceremonious, formal compliments, stiff civilities, will never be politeness; that must be easy, natural, unstudied, mar ly, noble. And what will give this but a mind benevolent and perpetually attentive to exert that amiable disposition in trifles to all you converse or live with? with?
