

Canada Pension Plan

this pension plan would be to make one more try to see if the province of Quebec can be persuaded to come in. I should like to see an all-Canada plan, because I am a little mystified about what will happen in two or three years if one of the other provinces decides that the plan is not working too well, and wants to start its own. Does the province of Quebec have any more right than any other province to stay out? I suggest the answer is no, and that the willingness of other provinces to go along with the plan may change if the plan does not work properly. The best way, and the only safe way, is to get the kind of plan which receives the consent of all and is entered into by the Dominion of Canada, and the governments of all the provinces.

Resolution reported and concurred in.

Miss LaMarsh thereupon moved for leave to introduce Bill No. C-75, to establish a comprehensive program of old age pensions in Canada payable to contributors and survivors.

Motion agreed to and bill read the first time.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Churchill: Could we call it eleven o'clock, Mr. Speaker? The business has been outlined for us for the next few days.

Mr. Knowles: Before you call it eleven o'clock, Mr. Speaker, I wonder whether I might make a suggestion to the appropriate person. I am sure there will be a great deal of interest in today's Hansard, particularly because of the white paper contained therein, let alone the statements which have been made by spokesmen for all parties. I am sure there will be a great deal of interest in the bill, first reading of which has just been given. I wonder whether the Minister of National Health and Welfare, or somebody else, can advise the printing bureau that it might be a good idea to print extra copies of today's Hansard, and of the bill?

Mr. Favreau: I can advise the house that we will try all we can to bring this about.

Mr. Knowles: In both languages, of course.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: It being eleven o'clock this house stands adjourned until 2.30 tomorrow afternoon.

At eleven o'clock the house adjourned without question put.
