

Sec.		PAGE.
4.	The physical qualities and chemical constitution of a soil may be changed by art,	271
5.	Improvement of the soil by mixing.	275
6.	Lime,	276
7.	Whether Lime ought to be used in larger doses at greater intervals, or in smaller doses at shorter intervals,	280
8.	Form and state of combination in which Lime ought to be applied to the land; and of the use and advantages of the compost form,	282
9.	When ought lime to be applied,	284
10.	Effect of lime on the productions of the soil,	285
11.	Circumstances by which the effects of Lime are modified,	287
12.	Effects of an over-dose of Lime, and of the sinking of Lime into the soil,	290
13.	Theory of the action of Lime,	293
14.	Laying down to Grass,	296