PUNCTUALITY.—Method, as Mrs Moore says, is the very hinge of business, and there is no business without punctuality. Punctuality is important because it subserves the peace and good temper of a family; the want of it not only infringes on necessary duty, but sometimes excludes this duty. Punctuality is important as it gains time; it is like packing things in a box; a good packer will get in half as much more than a bad one. The calmness of mind which it produces is another advantage of punctuality; a disorderly man is always in a hurry; he has no time to speak with you, because he is going elsewhere; and when he gets there he is too late for his business, or he must hurry away to another before he can finish it. It was a wise maxim of the Duke of Newcastle——I do one thing at a time." Punctuality gives weight to character——Sech a man has made an appointment; then know he will keep it. And this generates punctuality in you; for like other virtues it propagates itself; servants and children must be punctual, where their leader is so. Appointments, indeed, become debts; I owe you punctuality if I have made an appointment with you, and have no right to throw away your time if I do my own.—Cecil.
