

Poetry.

[Our readers will remember that a British resident in Spain, was recently denied the right of burial within the city of Madrid, on the ground that the deceased person was a Protestant. The following parody from Punch is a good commentary on this superstitious bigotry.]

Lines on the Burial of a British Protestant in Spain.

Not a knell gave out any funeral note,
As his corpse to the shingles we hurried;
And below our mark we had bore leave got,
That our countryman's bones should be buried,
We buried him, dog-like, on that mean site,
The site on the point of turning,
At the wretched Spaniards' lying site
With contempt ignorantly burning.

None at all were the prayers we read;
And we felt more of rage than of sorrow,
As we thought on the brutes who insult us dead,
And don't pay us alive what they borrow.

We thought as we followed his shelly bed;
And smoothed down his pebbly pillow;
That the crabs and the lobsters would creep o'er his head,
And with our wretches on the pillow!

Lighly they'll talk of our spirit as gone!
Our guns might to atoms have brayed them,
Yet we let the ravens in this way go on,
Treating those very Britons who made them.

But half of our shameful job was done,
When the waves roared the hour of retiring,
And we knew the distance should have to run,
To divert a rattle tumbling.

Sharply and quickly we had him down,
Mid the jeres of money, young and hoary,
And we said, unless Spain is compelled to atone,
All a hambug is Old England's glory!

The Tuileries of Paris.

The palace of the Tuileries is now open, like the Louvre, for the inspection of strangers, and I availed myself, the other day, of the privilege of visiting the celebrated and truly magnificent abode of the Kings of France. Last summer it was closed, in consequence of the necessary repairs to prepare it for the imperial residence. It now shows no traces of revolutionary violence. Neither the walls nor the furniture give any indication of the great excesses which the Parisian mobs have repeatedly committed. It now shines in all its ancient glory. Nor, probably, during the whole reigns of all the Kings of France, has so much expense been lavished on any suite of apartments as in those where Napoleon III. holds his court. I hazard nothing in saying that it is quite impossible for any person in America, who has not visited Europe, to conceive even of so much grandeur. The same, however, may be said of all the gigantic works of art in the Old World. Their extent, their variety, their beauty, can no more be comprehended by a description of them, however clear and brilliant, than the wonders of Niagara can be realized by a painting. A cathedral, in a drawing, looks no larger than a common church to one not conversant with architectural piles. It is the enormous value of the furniture and appendages of the Tuileries, their great richness and variety, which impress a stranger. The facade of the Tuileries is more than ten hundred feet in length, and the state apartments extend, in one unbroken series, through this entire length. Each room is peculiar. Each room has something wonderful, or curious, or beautiful about it. In one room the visitor chiefly admires the pictures, in another the hanging of silk embroidered with gold in the most exquisite manner. In another room one admires the lofty ceilings, carved and gilded in a style of most gorgeous magnificence. In another, one is struck with the rich golden carpets, woven in a single piece—carpets which would have probably employed a set of weavers for several years—carpets which are never bought or sold, but which are only used in royal palaces, and which, if seen out of France, are presents too costly except to be exchanged among the kings of the earth. In another room, the visitor especially admires the mirrors, or the chandeliers, or the tables of precious stones, or the cabinets of curious workmanship, or the clocks which tell the seconds, the minutes, the hours, the days, the years, the state of the tides and the changes of the moon. Whatever is costly, or grand, or beautiful, or rare, finds its way at last into a royal palace. And what place is more splendid in Europe after all, than the Tuileries? To me it is much grander than even Versailles. I think the throne-room as gorgeous as it is possible for a room to be made. One sees nothing absolutely but the richest velvets, and silks, and embroideries, and gems—noting but gold and costly ornaments in every point which meets the eye.

Early Seed Corn.

Farmers are too negligent in selecting corn for the next planting. The usual way is to wait until the crop is gathered, and then while husking to select some of the best looking ears for seed, but this is not the best way. My worthy friend Farmer D. is somewhat noted as the possessor of a superior variety of corn, and on account of its being about three weeks earlier than the usual varieties, his neighbors consider themselves fortunate if they can get their seed of him, and he is sometimes annoyed by the repeated drafts upon his choice selection of ears. Now what is the secret of this superiority? Let me tell you, and then let me say "go thou and do likewise." Farmer D. has always planted the common kind of corn, the same as his neighbors, but for quite a number of years he has made it a practice to pass through his field every few days after his corn begins to turn, and select the ears that first ripen and carefully husk and hang them up. Each lot he keeps by itself so that he can tell which came off first, which second, &c., and when he plants in the spring, he uses first that which he first selected. By continuing this course of practice, he now has the satisfaction of having his crops about three weeks earlier than his neighbors, besides being of a superior quality. Try it my friends, and also bear in mind the fact that the same principle will apply to all kinds of seed. If you wish early peas, beans, potatoes, &c., just take a little pains to select the earliest ripe, and look out for them next spring when planting time comes. From much observation I am convinced that more depends upon the selection and proper care of the seed, than upon early planting. Have your seed and ground ready and do not be in a hurry to plant until the ground is well warmed. A very old man has told me that it was time to plant corn when the bobolinks make their first appearance, and not before. Just hear this in mind in connection with the selection of your seed.—Correspondent of the Vine Farmer.

Vicious Cattle.

The common "vice" of jumping and throwing fences is taught to cattle, with scarcely an exception, by their owners and care takers. Fences half down, soon fall by the rubbing of cattle, and teach the first lesson, especially if cattle have any shrewdness in observing cause and effect. Very fine feed just over a poor fence, is the next lesson; letting down bars and rail fences to the halves, from laziness, so that the animal has to leap, is the third lesson—and this last is often first, second, and third with sheep, until they will seal any thing. These three lessons are usually enough, but a fourth is often added, namely, placing one additional rail on the fence each successive day, as they become more skilful, for the ostensible object of keeping the jumper within bounds, but really operating as a most ingenious contrivance to teach the art of vaulting. We have heard of French being "taught in six lessons," but very few animals require more than the above four to enable them to take "French leave" of any ordinary enclosure.—Country Gentleman.

THE TOMB OF NAPOLEON.—Wm. C. Bryant, the poet, has recently visited the tomb of Napoleon in the Church of the Invalides; France, which has just been completed. He says, in a late letter, that there is not upon earth so magnificent a mausoleum as that of the handful of dust that remains of the warrior who in his lifetime was the terror of Europe. The tomb in part constructed of American marble, the resting-place of the remains being surrounded by a circle of colossal figures, one of which, a winged figure, is to represent the angel of resurrection; who is in the consumption of earth to call the mighty warrior from his sleep, to be confronted by the spirits of the myriads who were slain in his sanguinary wars.

DOMESTIC RECEIPTS.

TO BOIL SALTED COD.—Wash and brush a dried fish, and put it in a pot of cold water, in the morning; let it stand where it will keep warm until eleven o'clock, when you must change the water, putting in cold water as at first. Twenty minutes before you dine, put it on and boil it. Or you may bind three fish together, and boil them, taking the middle one for the table, and using the others for mince-fish.—Home Cookery.

TOMATO SOUP.—Mash, scrape, and cut small the red parts of three large carrots, three heads of celery, four large onions, and two large turnips. Put them into a saucepan with one tablespoonful of new lard; let them stew gently for an hour, then add three quarts of brown soup and some whole black pepper, with eight ripe tomatoes; let it boil one and a half hours, and rub it through a sieve. Serve it with fried bread, cut in cubes.—J.

PRESERVING PEACHES.—We are confident of the thanks of every notable housewife for the following receipt for preserving peaches, which we obtained from the wife of an experienced fruit grower in this vicinity. To twelve pounds of peaches, take six pounds of clean brown sugar, and one pint best cider vinegar; Simmer the sugar and vinegar together, which will make a clear syrup. Pour boiling water upon the peaches, and remove them in two minutes from the water, and wipe them dry without breaking the skin. Put them into the syrup, and boil gently until the fruit is cooked to the stone. Keep the preserves in jars, which must be kept closely covered and in a cool place. They should be inspected occasionally, and if a white mould appears upon the surface of the syrup, it must be carefully skimmed off, and the syrup scalded and returned to the peaches. The peaches tried last fall were a seedling variety, ripened the last of October. They were acid, but preserved the peach flavor in a high degree, which was retained by this method in the most perfect manner. This is the best economical, and, to our taste, the very best preserve we know of.—Providence Journal.

THE RAINY DAY.

BY LONGFELLOW.
The day is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the mouldering wall,
And at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
My thoughts still cling to the mouldering Past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still, sad heart! and cease repining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

That perfect bliss the Bible painting,
Awaits the spirit uncomplaining,
Affection set on things above;
Creator, Saviour, crown'd Redeemer,
Of "many mansions" the Revealer,
Attune my heart to sing thy love.)

The Road to Health.

Holloway's PILLS.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION.
Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, Prescott Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY:
Sir—Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on our sale list of Proprietary Medicines for several years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any enquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars of her case. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver, and had digested. On the last occasion, however, the violence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set on so severely, that death was contemplated; but her not being able to bear up under it; fortunately she was induced to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first, and each succeeding dose, she had great relief. She continued to take them, and although she used only three Boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many more cases, but the above, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think, speaks much in favour of your astonishing Pills. (Signed) R. W. KIRKUS.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC AFFECTION, IN VAN DIEMEN'S LAND.
Copy of a Letter inserted in the Hibernian Courier, of the 1st March, 1851, by Major J. Walsh.
Margaret M. Connigan, nineteen years of age, residing in New Town, had been suffering from a violent rheumatic fever for upwards of two months, which had entirely deprived her of the use of her limbs; during this period she was under the care of five different medical men in Hobart Town, and by them her case was considered hopeless. A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she consented to do, and in an incredible short space of time they effected perfect cure.

CURE OF A PAIN AND TIGHTNESS IN THE CHEST AND STOMACH OF A PERSON 34 YEARS OF AGE.
From Messrs. Thos. & Son, Proprietors of the Lynn Advertiser, who can vouch for the following statement—August 2nd, 1851.

SIR,—I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a Rheumatism which was also accompanied by a shortness of breath, that prevented me from walking about. I am 31 years of age, and notwithstanding my present state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am desirous that others should be made acquainted with my distress. I am now recovered, by their means, and I can take exercise without inconvenience or pain, which I could not do before. (Signed) HENRY COE, North Street, Lynn, Norfolk.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF THE GRAVEL, AND A MOST DANGEROUS FEYER COMPLAINT.
Copy of a Letter addressed to J. K. Heyden, Esq., Syd. New, New South Wales, dated Feb. 25th, 1851.
SIR—Mr. Thomas Clark, Settler at Lake George, was for a considerable time seriously afflicted with a Complaint of the Liver, together with the Gravel. His medical attendants, after trying all their skill, candidly told him that his case was hopeless, and any further efforts would terminate in his existence. A friend recommended him to try Holloway's Pills, and as a forlorn hope he did so, the first gave him considerable relief, he therefore persevered in taking them according to the directions, and is now restored to health. He will feel great pleasure in confirming this statement, or even make an affidavit to the same effect, should it be required. (Signed) WILLIAM JONES, Proprietor of the Goulburn Herald, New South Wales.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

A MOST MIRACULOUS CURE OF BAD LEGS, AFTER 43 YEARS SUFFERING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. William Galpin, of 70, St. Mary's Street, Weymouth, dated May 15th, 1851.
To Professor HOLLOWAY:
Sir—At the age of 10 my wife (who is now 61) caught a violent cold, which settled in her legs, and ever since that time they have been more or less sore, and greatly inflamed. Her agonies were distracting, and for months together she was deprived entirely of rest and sleep. Every remedy that medical men advised was tried, but without effect; her hands suffered severely, and the state of her legs was terrible. I had often read of your Pills and Ointment, and advised her to try your Pills and Ointment; and, as a last resource, after every other remedy had proved useless, she consented to do so. She commenced six weeks ago, and strange to relate, is now in good health. Her legs are painless, without sores, and her sleep sound and undisturbed. Could you have witnessed the sufferings of my wife during the last 43 years, and contrast them with her present enjoyment of health, you would indeed feel delighted in having been the means of so greatly alleviating the sufferings of a fellow creature. (Signed) WILLIAM GALPIN.

A PERSON TO YEARS OF AGE CURED OF A BAD LEG OF THIRTY YEARS' STANDING.
Copy of a Letter from Mr. William Adams, Builder of Gas Works, of Rushcliffe, near Huddersfield, dated May 31st, 1851.
To Professor HOLLOWAY:
Sir—I suffered for a period of thirty years from a bad leg, the result of two or three different accidents at Gas Works, accompanied by acute symptoms of Rheumatism, and a variety of medical advice, without deriving any benefit, and was even told that the leg must be amputated. In opposition to that opinion, your Pills and Ointment have effected a complete cure in so short a time, that few who had not witnessed it would credit the fact. (Signed) WILLIAM ADAMS.

A DREADFUL BAD BREAST CURED IN ONE MONTH.
Extract of a Letter from Mr. Frederick Turner, of Penhurst, Kent, dated Dec. 13th, 1850.
To Professor HOLLOWAY:
SIR—My wife had suffered from Bad Breast, for more than six months, and during the whole period had the best medical attendance, but all to no use. Having been healed an awful wound in my own leg by your unrivalled medicine, I determined again to use your Pills and Ointment, and therefore gave them a trial in her case, and fortunate it was I did so, for in less than a month a perfect cure was effected, and the benefit that your Pills and Ointment of my family have derived from their use is really astonishing. I now strongly recommend them to all my friends. (Signed) FREDERICK TURNER.
