taken up their task with commenable years past had been expended upon the soness and energy. The probable result of yesterday's meeting will be that legislation will be secured at the coming session of the legislature, providing a general town-planning law for the province, and guaranteeing that the expansion of the city of St. John shall be in accordance and the educational authorities should cowith modern ideas. By the adoption of such a plan, a great saving will be made, for other cities are now spending enormous sums to overcome difficulties resulting from their failure at the outset to fol-

The intelligent and energetic manner in which business men and municipal representatives are dealing with questions resentatives are dealing with questions relating to the growth of the city is worthy of hearty commendation. It will be the duty of the people generally at an early date to select a group of men as commissioners who may be relied on to administer civic affairs with foresight and ability. It may be hoped that when the time comes the electors will make such a choice as will produce this result.

He is already well-servatives dislike to have discussed, it is known in the counties as an able camb the shameless compact made between the paign speaker, and now he appears in a new role, as the leader of his party.

Mr. Copp took occasion last evening to comment upon Mr. Flemming's appeal for Liberal support, and pointed out that a similar appeal had been made by Mr. Hazen in 1908, only to be forgotten when the elections were over. Mr. Copp recalls this fact as a warning to Liberals at the present time and for the future. Mr. Copp made a strong point when he pointed out that it is not the former provincial government which is now on trial, but that of which Mr. Hazen was and Mr. Flemming now is the leader. This government has been in power long enough for the paign speaker, and now he appears in a flag-flappers and the Nationalists to gain has been in power long enough for the electors to be able to judge whether its pledges have been kept, and whether it deserves to be retained in power. Mr. Copp showed how one of its pledges was kept. This was the promise to keep the expenditure within the income. With a revenue vastly greater than that of the former government there was last year an admitted deficit of $56,000, which of course does not tell the whole story. Nor were other pledges better kept. The public work is not all put up to public tender. The administration of the highways has not been separated from political favor-

So far as his own policy is concerned Mr. Copp announces that a provincial convention will be held, when he will take counsel with Liberal leaders from all the counsel with Liberal leaders from all the counties, and lay down a platform upon which to appeal to the people. This is a wise course to pursue, and it will not be difficult for the party in convention to be difficult for the party in convention to

EDUCATION AND BUSINESS

A committee of the 68, John board of trade has been giving attention to the question of providing some means by which technical training might in some small way be made available for young workers in this city, and night schools have been suggested. Business men should be interested in this question, and by exerting their in fluence they would aid very materially in securing the adoption of a more practice clucational policy in the city. During the last year or two the New York Chamber of Commercial education, with the prophen of commercial education, with the prophen of commercial education, with the prophen of commercial education, and in particular, it is lest week's issue, says:

"In November last, after hearing the report of a special committee appointed earlier in the year, the Chamber created a permanent committee to consider ways and means for furthering the interests of commercial education, and, in particular, for actively co-operating with the school authorities both in the catabilishment of the subject of the last end to the suggested co-operating with the school authorities both in the catabilishment are in the party and will go through the "hot plate drill," and will go through the "hot plate drill, and will be the price of.
