The service began by the singing of a hymn, after which the bishop spoke briefly of the ceremony they were about to witness, and then sitting in his chair, at the chancel, formally read and delivered to the new rector the instrument of collation, at the same time giving him the Episcopal mandate to the wardens for his in-duction. This latter ceremony con-sisted of the giving by the wardens and receiving by the rector of the keys of the church, after which the rector personally locked and unlock. ed the church door and rang the bell in token to the parishioners of the right now vested in his as rector of opening and closing the church and and his person completely paralyzed of summoning the parishioners to gather for public worship. In the evening the church was well musical part of the service was especially fine. Rev. Scovil Neales, the newly inducted rector, was born at Gagetown, in Queens county, April 19th, 1864. He is a son of the late Rev. James Neales, M. R. C. S., rector of Gagetown, and was educated at the Gagetown Grammar school and the University of New Brunswick, graduating from the latter in June, 1884. He received the M. A. degree two years later and was ordained deacon on Trinity Sunday, 1887, and advanced to the priesthood one year later. home on Thursday afternoon under the influence of liquor. His horse reached the farm house without a driver, and on the following day search was made for the missing man. To get home he had to cross the Waweig river, and as the lower bridge is indergoing repairs and is closed to teams, the upper bridge was crossed by O'Brien. His hat and whip wer found at the corner near this bridge where he had evidently been thrown out. His horse left town on the run under a vigorously applied whip, and it is supposed that he twend this corner too rapidly. Finding himself sepa ated from his team, it is suppos that he walked to the lower bridge and attempted to recross to the house of some friends to spend the night, for the dead body was found in the river near this bridge on Sunday. Foot passengers can cross on three loose planks, but it would be a perilous un-dertaking for a man in O'Brien's condition. A sensational space writer in Calais has sent a wonderfully conceived story of murder to the Bangor News, but there is no reason to suspect foul play. The unfortunate man had only seven dollars, with him when he left home, and as he collected very little if any, but spent some while here, the robbery theory has no foundation. The efforts of sihis particular correspondent and other space writers in Calais to make a case of murder in this county are worthy of the severest condemnation.

The funeral of the late Miss Charlotte L. Crossman took place this af-termoon from her father's residence on High street. The deceased young lady, who was a school teacher, contracted a severe cold, which settled on her lungs, and the best medical treatment could not dislodge it. GRAND MANAN CAPTAIN LOST LUBEC, Me., Oct. 28 .- Captain Ad-LUBEC, Me., Oct. 28.—Captain Ad-fred Stanley, aged 72, was lost ever-board from his vessel, the schooner Dreadnaught, in Lubec Narrows this afternoon. The accident was a sud-den one, as the mainboom swung around and caught Captain Stanley unawares. He drowned before the schooner could be luffed up and a hoat put out. The vessel and captain both hailed from Grand Manan, and Captain Stanley was quite well kn as a coasting mariner.
