In Trinity church yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, Miss Frances Elizabeth Robinson, daughter of J. Morris Robinson, was united in marriage to Robert Louis Ellis, formerly of the Bank of British North America staff in this city, and now of the Toronto agency. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Richardson. The bride, who wore a bridal gown of white, was attended by her three sisters, while Seymour Baker, of Yargown of white, was attended by her three sisters, while Seymour Baker, of Yarmouth, supported the groom. The ushers were Messrs. Harold B. Robinson, Beverly R. Armstrong, A. P. Hazen and J. J. Harrison. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's parents, Queen Square, where a collation was served and congratulations showered on the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis left later on a short honeymon trip and will return to St. John in a few days before going to their future home in Toronto. Both bride and groom are popular young people a fact that was attested by the many pretty remembrances sent them by friends.

Frederick Logan of 651 Main street. Knodwell felt home on July 13th to participate in the Orange parade at St. Stephen. Mrs. Ludgan went to Calais the same day to visit, as she told her husband, Mrs. Luddlow, a sister. She took her 15-year-old daughter with her. Knodwell told his wife he was going to Nova Scotia to see his brother. The three have not returned, and it is suspected they left Calais together and went to New York, as they are said to have been seen together on the steamer St. Croix. Wm Knodwell is about 45 years of age. Sixteen years ago next Docember he was married to Mathida attested by the many pretty remembrances of Waterford, Kings county. Mr. Logan is employed in Cushing's mill.

BISHOP KINGDON

Had a Long Confirmation Tour Since the Synod Prorogued.

When the Diocesan Synod of Fredericton rorogued, Bishop Kingdon commenced ound of confidmations. On Sunday mornng, July 12, he confirmed in St. Luke's church, Woodstock, seventeen candidates presented by Archdeacon Neales. In the afternoon he drove over to Richmond and Pugsley for his influence in the passage of the ball is made. Previous to passing the act, the limit of liability of action was six years. The registrar reported that the council had deemed it advisable to defer for another year the seeking of provincial degislation to bring the Canada medical act, Doctor Ruddick's bill, into effect as far as New Brunswick was concerned, as Quebec was opposed and the act could not become law until an amendment was passed in the federal gardiament. confirmed twelve candidates, who had been On Wednesday morning the bishop took ail to Bristol and drove to Glassville, where in the unfinished little church he rail to Bristol and drove to Glassville, where in the unfinished little church he confirmed fifteen presented by Rev. E. W. Simonson, who on Thursday, July 16, drove the bishop to Beaufort, where seventeen were confirmed, and the thishop returned to Bristol, altogether a thrive of about thirty miles. On Friday morning confirmation was held in the beautiful little church at East Florenceville, where five boys and three girls were confirmed. The bishop then drove on to Centreville, where in the evening he confirmed fifteen. On Saturday morning he drove to Greenfield, where in St. Bagnabas' church he confirmed fifteen. Thus in these four days the Rev. E. W. Simonson dreve the bishop seventy miles in his extended mission, and presented seventy candidates, a splengin record. On Saturday afternoon the bishop took train for Andover. On Sunday morning, July 19, the hishop drove to Four Fribs, where the Rev. F. M. C. Bedell presented six candidates; and on return to Andover in the afternoon, Mr. Bedell presented twelve candidates, of whom five were males. At this service, Archdeacon Harte, of the diocescs of Maine, was present.

A Well-built House.

The old Frederick A. Wiggins house of Germain street is rapidly being demolished, but the workmen find the task of pull ing down the structure one of great dif ficulty, so strongly has it been built and so well preserved are the timbers. Some of the wood which was used in the building of the house is rarely if ever seen here at the present time, and would command a handsome price if any were offered for sale. Some of the beams are fully forty feet long, and many of them are perfect, being as good as new and entirely free from knots. The roof of the house seems to have been built to resist every imagin able form of pressure, and several of th beams were made still more secure by wooden pegs. The work, however, is pro gressing quite rapidly, and the old land mark will soon be erased from the cit-surface, Mr. H. H. THE WAR IS ON.

Coroner Berryman Insists That He Must Have Suitable Accommodation, and That He is Entitled to the Same Under Resolution of the Municipal Council.

The little difference of opinion between Sheriff Ritchie and Coroner Berryman in the municipal council chamber Tuesda somewhat interesting sequal last evening a somewhat interesting sequent last extends. The first part of the story is told in the Telegraph's report of the meeting of the municipal council. That body apparently acquiesced in Councillor Baxter's view that the room over the dead house was a good enough place under ordinary condi-tions in which to hold an inquest, and that under extraordinary conditions the sheriff had power to grant the use of a room in the court house.
Coroner Berryman does not take kind

Coroner Berryman does not take kind-ly to the room over the dead house, under any conditions, and when the hour for opening the Jesse Munphy inquest arrived-last evening he and his jury were lined up at the court house awaiting admission. The coroner had an order from Councillor Maxwell, who was not present at the municipal council meeting yesterday, for the tise of a room in the court house. Councillor Maxwell is chairman of the buildings committee. But Marshal Coughlan declined to open the doors, having received other instructions from what he considered a higher authority. However, he was not inwilling to accompany Corhe was not unwilling to accompany Cor he was not unwilling to accompany Coroner Berryman to the police station to see what the telephone would bring forth.

The members of the jury enjoyed the view on King Square for quite a long time, no doubt regretting the absence of a band for their entertainment; but presently the coroner returned, wearing a look of vigorous determination. He could not would not have a room in the dead house. So, when the marshal opened the door of the city council chamber to admit the members of the medical society, who were to meet there, Coroner Berryman marshalled his jury in the large hall and informed them that the inquest was adjourned until next Fuesday night.

Coroner Berryman, as a minicipal official, insists upon suitable accommodation, and also argues that under a resolution of council passed in May he is entitled to the use of a room in the court house. The next move will be awaited with deep interest and some anxiety, because when a sheriff and some anxiety, because when a sher

The committee recommended that the sum of $20 be received from Henry Gal-breath, late collector of district No. 2, Lancaster, in full settlement of the amount retained by him as percentage on the amount assessed for highway purposes in said district.

The report was adopted.

The committee to act with the sheriff in regard to hard labor sentences reported the employment of malle prisoners in making roads and other improvements in Rockwood Park. From twelve to fifteen of these prisoners have been employed from June 8 last to the present time, when the weather permitted. The committee are of opinion that the undertaking has been, so far, a complete success, and are hopeful ithat much benefit may result therefrom.

This report was also adopted.

The quently to pass such a resolution as that of Coun. White said the assessment was $70,000. The sum of $2,000 had been tak in the sinking fund. That $2,000 is should first be paid back, and after that the weather permitted. The committee was no unfairness about it. It was a plain matter of correct business.

Coun. Baxter moved as an amendment that in future all simking fund moneys be made a special deposit, and from time to time invested in permanent securities, under the sinking fund to any other purpose was a vicious principle.

Sheriff and Coroner Ald. Macrae moved that the council be resolved into a committee of the whole, to hear Sheriff Ritchie in regard to the use of the court house for holding inquests.

Sheriff Ritchie said he thought it was discourteous in the council to take the action they had done in regard to holding inquests in the court house, without consulting him. The last time an inquest was held in the council chamber, the room next morning was a perfect wreck. It was left in a filthy and horrible condition. If this were to continue the council must run the risk of having its property destroyed. There was no necessity for the boroner to use either the council room or the supreme court room upstairs. There was a room over the dead house which would serve the purpose admirably. He would ask them to adjourn for a few minutes to see the property that was likely to be de-

Coroner Berryman asked permission to make a statement, and it was granted. He admitted that at the time of the Doherty

He had presented to the deputy sheriff the council's order for the use of the room for Saturday might last, and it had been denied him. That was a dishard been denied him. That was a dishard the council officer he had been denied him. That was a discourteous act. As a municipal officer he had a perfect right to be provided with proper accommodations. The room over the dead house was not if for the purpose. As a coroner he claimed the council had a perfect right to give him a suitable room, and it was undignified and discourteous on the part of the sheriff to come here and make insimuations.

Ald. Baxter said that all except the wit nesses and those directly interested short be excluded from the coroner's court room Ald. Robinson said the council were no bound to provide the coroner with a row Coroners all over the country had to po-vide their own rooms

The council then adjourned for The council then adjourned for a few minutes to inspect the supreme court room and also the room over the dead house. Coun. Baxter, when the council resumed, repeated that the public should be excluded from a coroner's inquest, which was a rough and ready inquiry to get at the salient facts. It was his opinion that the room over the dead house was large enough and good enough. The council's resolution authorized the sheriff to grant the use of the court room in case of an emergency, but did not compel him to do so. He thought that covered the ground, and therefore no further action by the council was necessary. The matter dropped just there,

Coun. Kely seconded this motion.

Coun. Lee again declared that Coun.

Christie's motion was the most absurd that had ever passed the council.

Coun. Christie charged that when bonds were sold to make repairs to the hospital ware sold to make repairs to the hospital and fail the money was dimented to other purposes of the municipality. He was amazed that Coun. Lee would take such a stand as he did. He had not learned until recently how the financial affairs had been conducted.
