Working all day long was she,
As her children, three or four,
Played around her on the floor
Rut in reconstruct the core ast a trifle lonesome she,

But her spirits always rose, Like the bubbles in the clothe And though widowed and alone, Cheered her with the monotone, Of a Saviour and a friend Who will keep her to the end have seen her rub and scrub While the baby, sopped in suds, Rolled and fumbled in the duds

Or was paddling in the pools
With old sciseors stuck in spools;
She still humming of her friend
Who would keep her to the end And I would not wish to strip
From that washer woman's lip

Sam Ward was once seated opposite a self-known Senator at a dinner at Washington. This Senator was very bald, and the light shining on the breadth of scalp attracted Ward's attention.

"Can you tell me," he asked his neighbor, "why the Senator's head is like Alaska ?"
"No: I cannot.

" No; I cannot "Because it's a place."
The neighbor was immensely tickled and he hailed the Senator
