Handiest Grates

A VOID the exasperating experience of grates going wrong by using the Corona Range. Not only are the Corona grates different in shape from the old-fashioned sort, but they are built for long life, being heavier. And you can change them in a minute. Instead of sliding in and out like the old-timers do, you simply release a plate and lift the grates from their position in a jiffy. That's handy enough for anybody surely! No fuss and expense having a mechanic to take them out. How handy for changing from coal to wood, too.

Certainly you should know all nbout this handiest of handy ranges with its fuel-saving and easy management features. See the Corona at the dealers and write us directly for free literature.

1870 Our Golden Jubilee 1920 "A League of Neighbors"

This happy expression used by an official of an Ameri-can sister Mutual to deacribe the principle of the modern life insurance company is es-pecially applicable to a mod-ern mutual company.

The different members of a life company are related to each other as definitely as though they were partners in a business. Each contributes sufficient to protect the dependents of all the policyholders as they come to require assistance.

The Mutual Life of Canada is a League of Neighbors which it is at once a duty and a privilege to join.

many times for the former provisions. After the fathers had seen to this much of their children's welfare they, like Pilate washed their hands of all responsibility and gave further attention over to who-ever might care for it. What pocket money might be procured generally came from the mother, or, at least, after her recommendation. Then in idle times it was the precedent to hire with neighbors the remuneration for this, helping material ly in supplanting the vacancy in the pocket. Just how the father clothed his children in educative wisdom was in a few cases a sad affair. To use one fellow's words: "When I mixed up with town hove I talked looked and was town boys, I talked, looked and was every inch a hayseed; I didn't know a social lecture from an moving-picture show!" Above all, the fathers had not shown an interest in their boys, especially in not helping them to be intelligent and progressive farmers. The boys said these individuals whom they called the "old men" would invest what little was made on the farm in a bank account, rather than make any effort to improve the stock or purchase even the smallest laborsaving device which could be purchased for a trifle. They said they would rather have a few hundred dollars spent now to improve the farm than thousands when the old order died. By making the investment now good interest could be made upon it in a modern, business-like way, instead of laboring under the most haphazard conditions in developing a two-decade-ago product, and finally when they might become possessors of the farm, or have equal interests in it, they would be mere physical wrecks unable to overtake the times which had become so advanced; and then, not having the clear comprehension which they possessed formerly, they would also be broken mentally and spiritually when the vigor, fire and happiness of life have become a past instinct. Verily, when these elements of existence which count for so much in making life worth living pass from us, it would be truly better had our feet completed their journey and our reet completed their journey and their vacant places already been filled by some others. All these boys and girls claimed to have missed the friendly communion of their father in simple joys, in simple talks, in relationship, in comradeship, and most of all in confidence. Nay, they missed it not—it never existed. Many of them spoke of things guite precessive on the ordinary. of things quite necessary on the ordinary farm, and at the same time a good investment, yet when they spoke to their father about them he viewed all their suggestions with scorn, treated them with dogmatism and bigotry, and in any and every way refused to be reasonable, thwarted their ideas, and in every what he was supposed to be.

Thus it is readily seen that money has not all to do with keeping the boys on the farm. You cannot plant them down in old ways and expect to reap up-to-date results. They must receive the attention, consideration, companion-his and love that is due them. It think ship and love that is due them. I think some of us have lost our path and are far astray from the mission to which man is called in this old egotistic world; we are lost in self ideas, self conclusions, self aspirations; we have become so dogmatic that even the sons and daughters are waiting in the cold. I would rather that my friends should now hear the casket, than wait to have it become a reality that the ones who should love me most, and that I should love most would lose with me through life the personal touch of that highest developed devotion-companion and comradeship manner became a taskmaster instead of

"Why do you turn his desires away, Why do you wait a convenient day, When your boy is calling you now."

Stallion for Sale.

Bailie Boy, the imported Clydesdale stallion illustrated in another column of this issue, is offered for sale by A. McInnis, R. R. 3, Markdale, Ontario. This horse was foaled June, 1910, and is a beautiful dappled brown with a white stripe on his face. He is stated to be without fault, quiet in every way, and a good worker, the only reason for selling him being that the owner is unable to carry on the business. This horse can be bought at a reasonable figure, and should be an excellent opportunity for someone who desires to purchase an imported Clydes-

The DE LAVAL MILKER

The one moving part of the Udder Pulsator

The De Laval Udder Pulsator is a remarkable advance in pulsator construction. It has no valves, no springs, no weights, no diaphragms. The only moving part is the small, plain piston of non-rusting, wear-resisting Monel metal, which never comes in contact with the milk, is entirely enclosed and lasts for years without oiling, adjusting or repairing.

The De Laval Milker is alternating, positive, uniform and gentle in action—requiring no adjustment of any kind. It is faster, more reliable and more sanitary than any other method of milking, and is sold with full knowledge of the fact that more is expected of it than of any other milker—due to the Company's reputation for service and satisfaction to users of De Laval machinery.
