ARE COMBING OUT THE CIVIL SERVICE

BY END OF JUNE, 850 AGED MEN AND WOMEN WILL HAVE BEEN RETIRED.

It is estimated that by the end of June, 850 men and women will have been retired from the Civil Service of Canada. Since the passing of the Older Superannuation act last session of Parliament, 1,699 civil servants over 65 years have been reported by Government departments to the civil service commission. Of these, 660 were recommended for retirement, it being considered the others could continue to render efficient service.

Many of those who have or are to be superannuated are over 70 years of age. One of the oldest is Adam Brown, postmaster of Hamilton, who leaves the service at the age of 74. Several women coming under the measure are in their seventies, and one, who has been in the service for 45 years, is 81 years of age.

WELL SATISFIED WITH BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else. Her use of them leads her to believe there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the many minor ailments of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. Eugene Baisrock, East Adelaide, Que., writes: "My baby was terribly constipated, but after the use of Baby's Own Tablets he is entirely well again. I am so well satisfied with the Tablets that I have no opportunity in recommending them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Last year the domestic manufactures of Canada exported from the Dominion had a value of $555,429,180.

A Children's Strike.

A Norfolk, England, village is now in the thick of a school children's strike, which the labor members have promised to join. This is the second school strike which has occurred in Norfolk and has been caused by the displacement of a headmistress due to an arrangement of the various departments. The lady in question had been teaching for eighteen years in that same school and there is a strong feeling that she has not been treated fairly.

Bad Breath IS CAUSED BY CATARRH

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On this account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the source.

It isn't necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a far better method.

Doctors now treat Catarrh by sending a purifying, healing vapor through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed.

The only successful vapor treatment is CATARRHOZONE, which the patient breathes through a special funnel to the real seat of the trouble. The rich, piney essence of Catarrhozone heal and soothe all inflamed surfaces. They effectively treat the nose, throat and lungs with a powerful anesthetic that destroys irritation at once.

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balsam of the pine forest. It cures completely colds, coughs, catarrh, weak throat, and bronchitis.

Once tried, Catarrhozone is always used. Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently cure. Accept no substitute. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1.00; small size 50c; sample trial size 25c; at all dealers.

Advice to Girls

Miss Rosalind welcomes letters from young women asking for advice on any subject. All you have to do is to address your letter to

MISS ROSALIND,

34 King William St., Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Rosalind:

Those letters of advice are very good as I have been following them up. I am troubled about one thing. I have been going with a boy for a couple of years. He is a very happy-go-lucky boy and doesn't seem to care about what he says to young girls. My family think very highly of him, but do not know him as well as I. Would you advise me to keep on going with him as my family wishes or would you stop and not pay any attention to him? Trusting you will give me the best of your advice.

TRIXY.

P. S.—I am only seventeen years of age.

Dear Trixy:

Follow your own better feelings, which surely tell you this boy is no fit companion for you. Tell your mother why you do not want to continue this friendship, and I know she will agree with you.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

You give such excellent advice I thought I would write too. I am old enough to have boy friends but there is one especially that I would like to enter on my list of friends. He is a very nice and manly boy, and my mother approves of him. How will I try to make him like me? Will I try to seem unfriendly to him or not as if I didn't care if he became my friend or not? I like him very much.

PERPLEXED.

Dear Perplexed:

Sincerity is the foundation of friendship. If you pretend that you do not care for this boy's friendship you will not be sincere. Even to pretend may hurt you yourself and make you feel worthy to be a friend. Such a long sermon I am preaching but I do want my girls and boys and men and women to become real friends to each other and if they are that, then they will develop fine, noble characters. I take it for granted that you have been introduced to the young man you speak of, and that you know him fairly well. When the opportunity comes, invite him to call at your home. Make his call as interesting as you can in a general way. Keep away from all "going with" ideas and establish that chumship which is so much better.

ROSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

After reading your beneficial and inspiring advice to youths, I am my-still tempted to ask your most appreciated advice: I am a girl of eighteen, have gone through High school, failing in Third form. I now have a position in an office in a small village. My parents object to me keeping company with young men, even once in a while. There are two young men who pay a great deal of attention to me, and are of good family. Should I go with one of them regardless of my parents' wishes, or should I ask my parents to allow me to go once in a while with a boy friend? Can you tell anything of one's character through their writing?

If so, would you be so kind? Also, one of these boy friends did not call me up for a long time, and lately he has called up again. Does that show he cares for me? With best wishes for the year now dawned.

A WEARY GIRL.

Dear Weary Girl: :
Have a real heart to heart talk with your mother and dad. Present your case to them so that they will see that every girl has the right to entertain her friends in her own home and her own family circle. If she does not meet boy friends at her own house, where can she go? And youth craves the companionship of youth. I am sure you will gain your point if you go about it right. I have troubles enough now, dear girl without telling my readers' characters by means of their handwriting. If the young man calls you up occasionally, he may be interested, or he may have had nothing else to do. It doesn't do to put too much stress on trifles. Thanks for the good wishes!

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

When a girl is out walking in company with a young man, if he should have occasion to go into a store, should she accompany him or should she wait outside until he returns?
Thanking you in advance for your reply.

PUZZLED MAE.

Dear Girl:

It is a case where you must use your own judgment. It is quite all right to accompany your escort into a store, unless the action is likely to cause your embarrassment.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I have been a constant reader of your letters and think they are well worth publication. Allow me to make a suggestion. Let everyone writing letters give name, age and address, so that others may correspond with them if they wish. Do you think it would be a good plan?

JAY.

Dear Jay:

Your correspondence idea is alright, and is already largely practiced in the column. But I keep to myself the real names and addresses, since to publish them would violate many confidences regarded by me as sacred.
I have made a note of your name and will exchange it with those who send me stamped, addressed envelopes.
You write such a nice letter that I hope you have heaps of answers.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I have often seen your advice in the paper, and thought it very good.
I am fourteen years of age and know a boy of the same age. I used to go to school every day with him and liked him. Then I moved away and hardly ever see him, so I wanted to ask you if you thought it was wrong for me to write him? I have received several letters from him, and always answered them. Now please answer and tell me what you think. Wishing you a Happy New Year.

UNHAPPY.

Dear Little Girl:

Wouldn't you write to a dear girl chum without questioning the matter or testing it make you unhappy? Do just the same with the boy chum and think of him exactly that way.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

Seeing other young girls asking you for advice I join the throng. I am a young girl of seventeen living in the country and I have a boy friend a few years my senior who lives fourteen or fifteen miles from where I live. He comes to see me every week at my home. Now dear Rosalind would it be proper or not for me to serve lunch before his departure as I think it is a long drive in the cold and is it proper to be free with other boy friends as far as joking is concerned when out with your boy friend in company at concerts or such like gatherings? Thanking you in advance and wishing you and all your readers a bright and happy New Year. Your interest reader.

WEEB CHOKEN.

My Dear Girl:

By all means give the boy some hot cocoa or coffee and sandwiches or cake before he starts on that long cold drive. It is always a pleasant way to end an evening call. Be nice, friendly and good-natured with all your friends and at all times.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I have read your advice every week and I would like you to give me some:
There is a young fellow coming to see me over a year and he is only 16 years old, and I am 18 and he wants me to get married and he has not much money but he is a steady worker and I think a lot of him, or is he too young to get married.

MAY.

My Dear May:

Surely you are not serious. A boy, sixteen, were he the steadiest work-
